1,000 Marines Leave Vietnam In New Pullback

SAIGON (AP) — About 1,000 Marines of the 3rd Division left from Vietnam to Okinawa today and another 4,900 prepared to depart for the United States in the first big move in the 35,000-man withdrawal ordered by President Nixon.

Other 3rd Division Leathernecks were not so lucky. One was killed and nine wounded when North Vietnamese gunners slammed 10 mortar shells into their positions along the demilitarized zone.

American B52 bombers retaliated by dropping 600 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese staging areas and just south of the DMZ.

By Christmas, about 18,000 Leathernecks will have left Vietnam as part of Nixon's second troop reduction. A cutoff of 25,000 U.S. troops was completed in August.

The 3rd and the 4th Marine regiments, the two regiments from the 3rd Division left in Vietnam, have patrolled the western two-thirds of South Vietnam's northern frontier area just below the 40-mile wide demilitarized zone. The division's other regiment, the 9th was redeployed in the initial cutoff.

Marine spokesmen at Da Nang said the first 1,000 Marines to leave were from the 3rd Regiment and from the headquarters and support units of the 3rd Division. All have served less than a year, a normal tour of duty, in Vietnam, the spokesmen said.

Within the next week, the spokesmen said, more than 4,900 Marines, who have served for at least a year, will leave for the United States.

The 4th Marine Regiment is still in the field and will be redeployed later. Casualties from the mortar attack were members of the 4th Regiment.

The second round of American troop withdrawals began 10 days ago, but involved only small Army units.

The 3rd Brigade of the U.S. 82nd Airborne Division will have one more major combat assignment before departing for home — "to intercept enemy infiltrators," said the unit commander, Brig. Gen. George W. Dickerson.

The brigade's job, guarding the western and northern flanks of Saigon will be turned over to the Vietnamese army.

Another small Army Reserve unit also left Vietnam today with the Marines. The 842nd Quartermaster Company flew from Da Nang, heading for Forbes Army Air Field in Kansas.

Spokesmen said the 120-man unit will be deactivated at Ft. Riley, Kan., then reconstituted in the Army Reserve at its home station in Kansas City.

The U.S. Command said the largest ground action during the past 24 hours was a six-hour fight between troops of the 4th Infantry Division and North Vietnamese soldiers in the central highlands 260 miles northeast of Saigon. Two Americans and 25 North Vietnamese troops were reported killed and eight Americans wounded.

Free Democrats Hold Answer To Chancellorship

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany's Socialists and conservatives propose marriage today to the liberal, mini opposition Free Democrats. The value of the Deutsche mark rests in the hands of the successful suitor.

The small Free Democratic party was the main loser in Sunday's federal elections, but it holds the key to the next Bonn government—30 seats in the Bundestag that would give either the Christian Democrats or the Social Democrats a controlling majority.

Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's Christian Democrats and Foreign Minister Willy Brandt's Social Democrats—joined in an alliance that expires Oct. 19—were to begin a series of talks with the Free Democrats today, both proposing coalition.

Brandt, who has announced he wants to be the next chancellor, tacitly ruled out a continuation of the present "grand coalition" by informing President Gustav Heinemann he intends to negotiate with Free Democrat leader Walter Scheel.

Scheel is armed with a recommendation from the powerful North Rhine-Westphalia wing of his party to accept the Social Democrats' proposal.

Together the Socialists and Free Democrats would command 254 of the 496 Bundestag seats against the Christian Democrats' 242.

Both Christian Democrats and Socialists say they can accommodate the smaller Free Democratic party in spite of policy differences.

The Christian Democrats reject the Free Democrats' campaign for closer ties with Communist East Germany and Eastern Europe in general—a policy largely in line with the Social Democrats.

The main obstacle to a Social Democrats-Free Democrats linkup is the Socialists' drive to let workers have more say in industry. The liberals side with the industrialists who provide much of their revenue.

Ethics Group Eyes Special Alien Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Ethics Committee, investigating allegations of bribery concerning special legislation allowing Oriental aliens to remain in the United States, has condemned shortcut methods used to introduce such bills.

Committee Chairman Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., said the panel has started an inquiry into published reports that bribes were arranged for the introduction of bills that in effect prevent deportation of the aliens.

Under Senate procedure, the alien involved is permitted to stay in the country while the bill is pending.

Stennis said the committee told its chief counsel, Benjamin R. Fern, to look into all private relief bills introduced during the 90th and 91st Congresses "dealing with so-called Chinese ship jumpers."

Stennis said some private bills allegedly were filed by staff members without the knowledge of the senator who sponsored them.

Stennis said the bills sometimes are introduced by a messenger, with the senator's name simply typed on the measure.

CIA's Refusal To Testify Kills Trial Of 6 Soldiers

Green Berets Celebrate Freedom

LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP) — The six Green Beret officers freed of murder charges celebrated today with a beer bust and prepared to fly home, while the widow of their alleged victim sobbed: "The soul of my husband will follow those who killed him."

"The outcome we never doubted at any time," said Col. Robert Rheault, 43, of Vineyard Haven, Mass., after Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor announced in Washington Monday he and five fellow officers would not be court-martialed in the slaying of an alleged Vietnamese double agent because the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency would not furnish witnesses.

"The only question was how long and how difficult it would be to prove the point," Rheault added as his comrades skylarked for newsmen, drank beer, loudly played the "Ballad of the Green Berets" on a portable phonograph and got ready to fly home.

A few miles from this military post, Mrs. Pham Kim Lien, widow of the slain Vietnamese, screamed: "The Americans are worse than the Viet Cong! I'm going to join the Viet Cong. I'm going to blow up the Americans! They are more cruel and savage than the Communists!" She collapsed in sobs, saying: "They eliminated my husband and now they are free. It is not fair. The soul of my husband will follow those who killed them."

Rheault, the slim, blond, crewcut West Pointer who commanded the 3,000 Special Forces in Vietnam before he was charged in the case, made his first public statement about the case in a brief news conference. He said it involved a "penetration agent . . . an agent who has penetrated one of your own operations, who has come under the guise of a friendly individual."

Asked whether Thai Khac Chuyen, the Vietnamese who the Army said was slain by the Green Berets last June 20, was such an agent, Rheault said: "I believe so."

He also was asked whether he could think of any circumstances "under which homicide might be justifiable in espionage work."

Replied Rheault, "I don't think you can make the terminology homicide. War is a difficult and dangerous business. People get killed in war. This is not to be considered homicide."

Besides Rheault, the officers facing court-martial in the case were Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., 29, of Jefferson, S.C.; Maj. David E. Crew, 33, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Capt. Leland J. Brumley, 27, of Duncan, Okla.; Capt. Budge E. Williams, 27, of Athens, Ga., and Capt. Robert F. Marasco, 27, of Bloomfield, N.J.

Also charged initially, when the case broke in June, were CWO2 Edward M. Boyle, 26, of New York City and Sgt. I.C. Alvin L. Smith Jr., 41, of Naples, Fla. Their charges were held in abeyance pending the trials of the other six.

Murder Case Comes To End With Whimper

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unexplained refusal by the U.S. spy agency to let its agents testify has put a sudden end to the controversial Green Berets murder trial.

Charges against the Green Berets—accused of killing a South Vietnamese double agent—were dropped swiftly Monday after the Army got word of the Central Intelligence Agency decision to avoid forthcoming trials.

Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor, who less than two weeks ago said he would not yield to congressional pressure to halt courts martial of six Berets, said the CIA's action meant the defendants could not get a fair trial.

"Accordingly, I have directed today that all charges be dismissed immediately," Resor said in a four-paragraph statement from the Pentagon. "The men will be assigned to duties outside Vietnam."

Resor said he was informed that the CIA, "though not directly involved in the alleged incident," had determined it would not be "in the national interest" to let its people testify.

Although there was no elaboration, presumably the secret agency felt its hush-hush activities in South Vietnam might be compromised even though the Army had planned to conduct at least part of the trials behind closed doors.

There were hints the CIA felt civilian lawyers hired to defend the Green Berets might talk to the press about classified spy operations in Vietnam during or after scheduled trials.

"You can hold a court martial behind closed doors, but that doesn't mean you can insure secrecy with all the people involved in the proceedings," one officer commented.

Though the Army's move means much of the case may forever remain obscure, the action was looked on favorably by a number of government officials.

—Members of Congress who numbered the accused Green Berets among their constituents were pleased, and the House cheered at the announcement Monday. Sens. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., both issued statements, with Thurmond saying he "was confident the Nixon administration would not prosecute these men."

But some House members echoed the feelings of Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., who said "Congress should insure that" (Continued on Page 12)

General, Sergeants Called To Testify In Army Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A retired Army general and some top-rated sergeants are expected to testify before a Senate subcommittee investigating charges that American servicemen were bilked of hundreds of thousands of dollars through operations of base recreation clubs.

A spokesman for the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee said leadoff witnesses at the hearings, which open today, would explain club operations in Germany and Vietnam with retired Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner and the sergeants probably to be called next week.

The subcommittee has declined to give any specifics about the scope of the hearings and as far as is known no criminal charges have been filed against any one.

But there have been numerous published reports in recent weeks that subcommittee investigators have uncovered a network through which Army personnel and some civilians have reaped huge profits by selling supplies for enlisted men's clubs to the Army.

Turner was named by President Nixon as the nation's top federal marshal, then abruptly fired without explanation.

Most important of the sergeants who have been called to testify is Sgt. Maj. William O. Woodriddle, who served for two years as the first sergeant major in history for the Army.

Woodriddle was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross after his tour as the Army's top enlisted man, but the award was suddenly revoked several weeks ago about the time word began circulating the noncommissioned officers clubs were under investigation.

Red China Says Mao, Lin To Attend Peking Festival

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China, celebrating its upcoming 20th anniversary with nuclear fireworks, has made an unprecedented announcement that Mao Tse-tung and his heir-designate, Lin Biao, will attend Wednesday's festivities in Peking.

U.S. Navy A Weakling?

LONDON (AP) — Jane's Fighting Ships, the massive annual which describes the warships of the world, says hundreds of American warships are on the brink of senility and pack the punch of a 97-pound weakling.

And the strongman, the descriptive array indicates, is the Soviet Union.

"Most of the U.S. aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers escorts and minesweepers, refitted or not, are a quarter of a century old," writes Raymond V. R. Blackman, an authority on naval power and editor of the warship annual for the past 21 years.

He says the Soviet Union is ahead in new construction and has built a navy "to be reckoned with."

The Soviet navy is shown as having 1,575 "newish" vessels in its total of 3,400 warships against the United States' 894 "newish" ships in a total of 3,360—hundreds of which Blackman says "are becoming a liability" to the U.S. Navy.

The dollar was being sold in a brisk turnover at around 3,800 marks, a rate which represented an upward revaluation of the German currency of about 3 1/2 per cent from its parity of four marks to the dollar.

This appeared to be the going rate throughout Western Europe.

One currency dealer said: "The weak currencies today are the dollar, the French and Belgian francs and the Italian lira. The pound is sailing through quite well. It moved up in both its spot and forward position."

Most dealers said there were few signs of a rush to change

in supplying the NCO clubs with food and beverages.

The Times account quoted several of the sergeants as saying the company could buy supplies cheaper than anyone else.

The company was registered in California and no apparent attempt was made to hide its existence or the names of the stockholders.

1,000 Marines Leave Vietnam In New Pullback

SAIGON (AP) — About 1,000 Marines of the 3rd Division flew from Vietnam to Okinawa today and another 4,900 prepared to depart for the United States in the first big move in the 35,000-man withdrawal ordered by President Nixon.

Other 3rd Division Leathernecks were not so lucky. One was killed and nine wounded when North Vietnamese gunners slammed 10 mortar shells into their positions along the demilitarized zone.

American B52 bombers retaliated by dropping 600 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese staging areas and just south of the DMZ.

By Christmas, about 18,000 Leathernecks will have left Vietnam as part of Nixon's second troop reduction. A cutback of 25,000 U.S. troops was completed in August.

The 3rd and the 4th Marine regiments, the two regiments from the 3rd Division left in Vietnam, have patrolled the western two-thirds of South Vietnam's northern frontier area just below the 40-mile wide demilitarized zone. The division's other regiment, the 9th, was redeployed in the initial cutback.

Marine spokesmen at Da Nang said the first 1,000 Marines to leave were from the 3rd Regiment and from the headquarters and support units of the 3rd Division. All have served less than a year, a normal tour of duty, in Vietnam, the spokesmen said.

Within the next week, the spokesmen said, more than 4,900 Marines, who have served for at least a year, will leave for the United States.

The 4th Marine Regiment is still in the field and will be redeployed later. Casualties from the mortar attack were members of the 4th Regiment.

The second round of American troop withdrawals began 10 days ago, but involved only small Army units.

The 3rd Brigade of the U.S. 82nd Airborne Division will have one more major combat assignment before departing for home — to intercept enemy infiltrators," said the unit commander, Brig. Gen. George W. Dickerson.

The brigade's job, guarding the western and northern flanks of Saigon will be turned over to the Vietnamese army.

Another small Army Reserve unit also left Vietnam today with the Marines. The 842nd Quartermaster Company flew from Da Nang, heading for Forbes Air Field in Kansas.

Spokesmen said the 120-man unit will be deactivated at Ft. Riley, Kan., then reconstituted in the Army Reserve at its home station in Kansas City.

The U.S. Command said the largest ground action during the past 24 hours was a six-hour fight between troops of the 4th Infantry Division and North Vietnamese soldiers in the central highlands 260 miles north-east of Saigon. Two Americans and 25 North Vietnamese troops were reported killed and eight Americans wounded.

CIA's Refusal To Testify Kills Trial Of 6 Soldiers

Green Berets Celebrate Freedom

LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP) — The six Green Beret officers freed of murder charges celebrated today with a beer bust and prepared to fly home, while the widow of their alleged victim sobbed: "The soul of my husband will follow those who killed him."

"The outcome we never doubted at any time," said Col. Robert Rheault, 43, of Vineyard Haven, Mass., after Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor announced in Washington Monday he and five fellow officers would not be court-martialed in the slaying of an alleged Vietnamese double agent because the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency would not furnish witnesses.

"The only question was how long and how difficult it would be to prove the point," Rheault added as his comrades sky-larked for newsmen, drank beer, loudly played the "Ballad of the Green Berets" on a portable phonograph and got ready to fly home.

A few miles from this military post, Mrs. Pham Kim Lien, widow of the slain Vietnamese, screamed: "The Americans are worse than the Viet Cong! I'm going to join the Viet Cong! I'm going to blow up the Americans! They are more cruel and savage than the Communists!" She collapsed in sobs, saying: "They eliminated my husband and now they are free. It is not fair. The soul of my husband will follow those who killed them."

Rheault, the slim, blond, crewcut West Pointer who commanded the 3,000 Special Forces in Vietnam before he was charged in the case, made his first public statement about the case in a brief news conference.

He said it involved a "penetration agent... an agent who has penetrated one of your own operations, who has come under the guise of a friendly individual."

Asked whether Thai Khac Chuyen, the Vietnamese who the Army said was slain by the Green Berets last June 20, was such an agent, Rheault said: "I believe so."

He also was asked whether he could think of any circumstances "under which homicide might be justifiable in espionage work."

Replied Rheault, "I don't

General, Sergeants Called To Testify In Army Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A retired Army general and some top-rated sergeants are expected to testify before a Senate subcommittee investigating charges that American servicemen were bilked of hundreds of thousands of dollars through operations of base recreation clubs.

A spokesman for the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee said leadoff witnesses at the hearings, which open today, would explain club operations in Germany and Vietnam with retired Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner and the sergeants probably to be called next week.

The subcommittee has declined to give any specifics about the scope of the hearings and as far as is known no criminal charges have been filed against any one.

But there have been numerous published reports in recent weeks that subcommittee investigators have uncovered a network through which Army personnel and some civilians have reaped huge profits by selling supplies for enlisted men's clubs to the Army.

Turner was named by President Nixon as the nation's top federal marshal, then abruptly fired without explanation.

Most important of the sergeants who have been called to testify is Sgt. Maj. William O. Woodridge, who served for two years as the first sergeant major in history for the Army.

Woodridge was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross after his tour as the Army's top enlisted man, but the award was suddenly revoked several weeks ago about the time word began circulating the noncommissioned officers' clubs were under investigation.

Fawcett Says OSU To Fight Disruption

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A reminder that Ohio State University will remain a place for new ideas and will not tolerate disruption or its own destruction went out to new students Monday.

President Novice G. Fawcett told 8,000 freshmen and new students the university is determined to insure that free expression "is accompanied by responsibility" and that the school is prepared to deal with any foreseeable disruption.

The Army would say only that information was turned up indicating Woodridge did not deserve the medal.

The New York Times last Friday said that Woodridge was one of a half a dozen stockholders in a company called Mare-dem which was established by a group of sergeants and ex-sergeants to act as a middle man in supplying the NCO clubs with food and beverages.

The Times account quoted several of the sergeants as saying the company could buy supplies cheaper than anyone else.

The company was registered in California and no apparent attempt was made to hide its existence or the names of the stockholders.

Red China Says Mao, Lin To Attend Peking Festival

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China, celebrating its upcoming 20th anniversary with nuclear fireworks, has made an unprecedented announcement that Mao Tse-tung and his heir-designate, Lin Biao, will attend Wednesday's festivities in Peking.

In an apparent attempt to scotch rumors that Mao and Lin are seriously ill, New China News Agency announced Monday both leaders would preside at ceremonies in Peking's Tien An Men Square.

In the past Red China has never made such advance announcements concerning Mao or Lin.

Speculation about their health was fanned by their absence since last May from public functions. There have been persistent rumors that Mao is dead, and anti-Communist newspapers in Hong Kong carried reports Monday that Lin was dying of cancer.

The Chinese have remained silent about their nuclear activities, although some announcement might be made in conjunction with the National Day celebration.

U.S. Navy A Weakling?

LONDON (AP) — Jane's Fighting Ships, the massive annual which describes the warships of the world, says hundreds of American warships are on the brink of senility and pack the punch of a 97-pound weakling.

And the strongman, the descriptive array indicates, is the Soviet Union.

"Most of the U.S. aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers, escorts and minesweepers, refitted or not, are a quarter of a century old," writes Raymond V. R. Blackman, an authority on naval power and editor of the warship annual for the past 21 years.

He says the Soviet Union is ahead in new construction and has built a navy "to be reckoned with."

The Soviet navy is shown as having 1,575 "newish" vessels in its total of 3,400 warships against the United States' 894 "newish" ships in a total of 3,360—hundreds of which Blackman says "are becoming a liability" to the U.S. Navy.

The Atomic Energy Commission in Washington said China conducted a nuclear test in the atmosphere Monday, and that the force of the blast was equivalent to 3 million tons of TNT.

Japan's Central Meteorological Agency said seismographic vibrations indicated the blast went off in the area of Lop Nor, China's nuclear testing ground in Sinkiang Province.

It was China's 10th nuclear explosion. The ninth, believed to be an underground test, was set off Sept. 22 in the Tien Shan mountains northwest of Lop Nor. Its size has not been disclosed.

Hold Eastlake Man In Nixon Threat

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Secret Service agents have arrested an Eastlake man on a charge of threatening the life of President Nixon.

Edmund H. Roland, 48, was arrested Sunday after agents said he threatened in a telephone call to the White House to shoot the President if Roland's son was sent to Vietnam.

Murder Case Comes To End With Whimper

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unexplained refusal by the U.S. spy agency to let its agents testify has put a sudden end to the controversial Green Berets murder trial.

Charges against the Green Berets—accused of killing a South Vietnamese double agent—were dropped swiftly Monday after the Army got word of the Central Intelligence Agency decision to avoid forthcoming trials.

Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor, who less than two weeks ago said he would not yield to congressional pressure to halt courts martial of six Berets, said the CIA's action meant the defendants could not get a fair trial.

"Accordingly, I have directed today that all charges be dismissed immediately," Resor said in a four-paragraph statement from the Pentagon. "The men will be assigned to duties outside Vietnam."

Resor said he was informed that the CIA, "though not directly involved in the alleged incident," had determined it would not be "in the national interest" to let its people testify.

Although there was no elaboration, presumably the secret agency felt its hush-hush activities in South Vietnam might be compromised even though the Army had planned to conduct at least part of the trials behind closed doors.

There were hints the CIA felt civilian lawyers hired to defend the Green Berets might talk to the press about classified spy operations in Vietnam during or after scheduled trials.

"You can hold a court martial behind closed doors, but that doesn't mean you can insure secrecy with all the people involved in the proceedings," one officer commented.

Though the Army's move means much of the case may forever remain obscure, the action was looked on favorably by a number of government officials.

Members of Congress who numbered the accused Green Berets among their constituents were pleased, and the House cheered at the announcement Monday. Sens. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., both issued statements, with Thurmond saying he "was confident the Nixon administration would not prosecute these men."

But some House members echoed the feelings of Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., who said "Congress should insure that

World Bankers Study German Mark's Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like the stockholders of a mammoth corporation, the barons of world finance waited today to hear what the largest business of them all—the United States—thinks about the world's economy.

Economists, finance experts and publicity men worked late at the U.S. Treasury Department Monday preparing Secretary David M. Kennedy's speech to the annual joint meetings of the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank and its affiliates.

The Treasury had been quiet speech to the representatives of 111 other non-Communist countries, but unofficial sources had said it would be a broad review.

President Nixon told the finance ministers and central bankers Monday, in a message read by Kennedy at the meeting's opening session, that the institutions must work to restore price stability, attack the obstacles to development and reinforce the framework of international finance.

"I can assure you that this country aims to do its part, including dealing with the inflation that for too long has strained the vitality of our economy," the President said.

In addition, the West German decision to remove controls on the mark and let it find its own exchange rate—probably considerably higher than the current 25 U.S. cents—is likely to get considerable attention during the meeting's remaining four days.

Dealers widened their buying and selling rates of Deutsche marks to a full three pennings. The British pound sterling improved its position steadily against the dollar throughout the morning and British government bonds were in strong demand.

The dollar was being sold in a brisk turnover at around 3.8600 marks, a rate which represented an upward revaluation of the German currency of about 3 1/2 per cent from its parity of four marks to the dollar.

This appeared to be the going rate throughout Western Europe.

One currency dealer said: "The weak currencies today are the dollar, the French and Belgian francs and the Italian lira. The pound is sailing through quite well. It moved up in both its spot and forward position."

Most dealers said there were few signs of a rush to change

sterling into marks as had been feared before the opening.

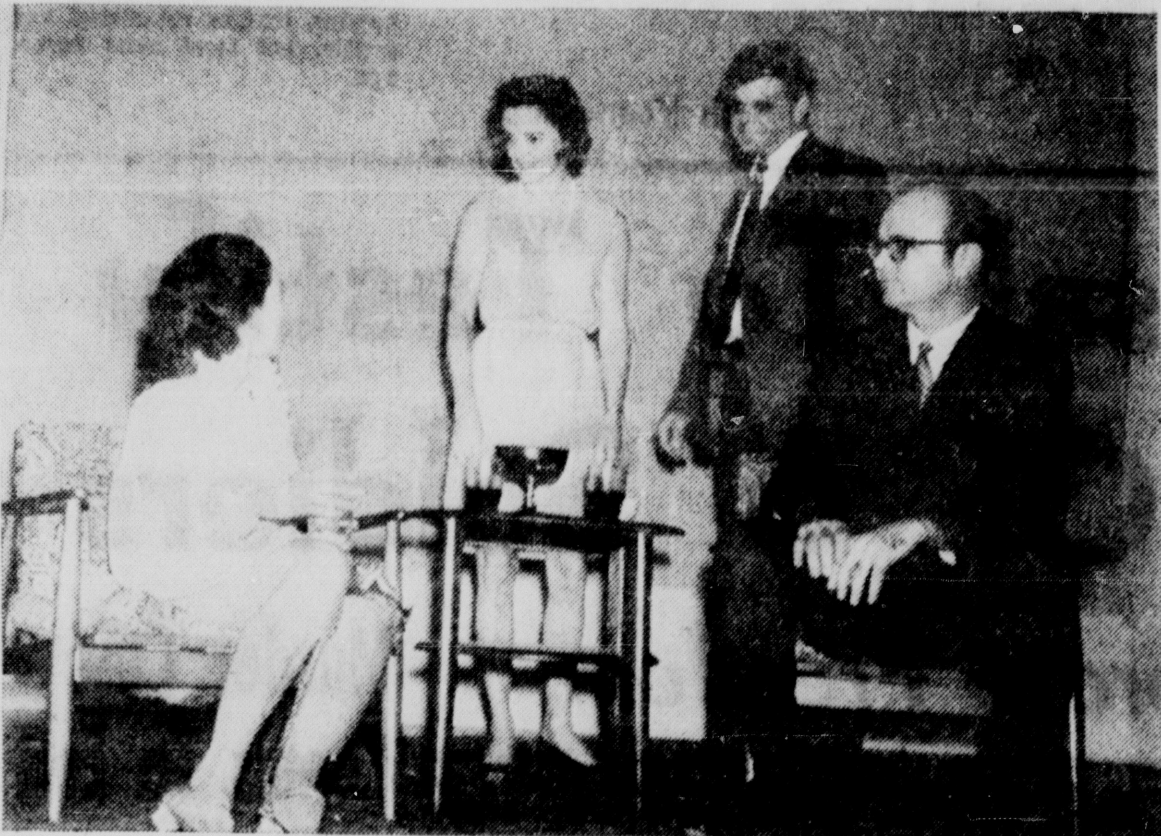

But to avoid being caught by surprise, dealers widened their buying and selling price to a full three pennings, offering to trade sterling in the range of 9.2350 to 9.2650 marks. The opening rate was 9.2650 against Monday's closing 9.3850.

The pound opened against the dollar at 2.3824 against Monday night's 2.3823 and quickly moved up to 2.3833.

The mark was traded at 3.33 per cent premium rate at the Zurich foreign exchange market. In less than an hour of trading... (Continued on Page 12)

Foes Of Alaskan Atom Test Fear Bigger Booms Later

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of the big nuclear tests on Alaska's Amchitka Island not only object to Thursday's planned blast, but look with apprehension at bigger booms that may follow.

Unofficial reports have tests in the five-megaton range, possibly related to Spartan missile warhead evaluation, contemplated for the tiny Aleutian island located well into the Pacific from the mainland.

The largest tests to date by the Atomic Energy Commission at its Nevada testing grounds have been in the one megaton range—the equivalent of a million tons of TNT.

Congressmen from Alaska, Hawaii, California and nongovernment scientists joined Monday in testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee saying the Thursday test could be disastrous, perhaps causing earthquakes and tidal waves.

Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, sent a letter to President Nixon asking postponement of Thursday's test until a nongovernment panel of scientists studies the question and approves. Several other congressmen share Gravel's position.

Committee chairman Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., acknowledged reports of five-megaton blasts on the schedule and said, "they'll stop when they produce an earthquake. If they don't have one at five megatons, they may go to 10."

Separately, an AEC spokesman said test shafts, enough for at least three tests, have been drilled on Amchitka. "Thursday's test will verify if other tests can be conducted safely," he said without elaborating.

An AEC commissioner, Clarence Larson, told the committee Amchitka is one of two supplemental testing sites. The other is in central Nevada, chosen because of an absence of people and high-rise buildings. The main site at Mercury, Nev., is too close to Las Vegas.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, a Baltimore Colt fan, had a bet with Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., on the outcome of the Minnesota Vikings-Colts game Sunday. The Vikings won 52-14.

MacGregor said his end of the wager was for a pound of Minnesota wild rice and added Agnew was taking the loss "kind of crabbyly."

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Survivors," ABC's new dramatic serial, has plenty of story material and a big cast, whatever else it may lack.

The action Monday night that introduced the principal characters took place in New York. Monte Carlo and an unidentified Latin-American country, and included a guerrilla execution, an auto race, embezzlement and a confession of illicit love.

The Carlyles of the series are enormously rich and enormously unhappy. Patriarch Baylor Carlyle heads his private bank, has a wife in a mental institution and worries about his kids. Ralph Bellamy played him as tough, stern and disappointed.

Daughter Tracy—Lana Turner—was celebrating the 20th anniversary of her marriage to Philip Hastings — but it was a mere shell of a marriage in exchange for a promise of a future in the family bank. Philip married her six months before the birth of a son fathered by a Greek guide. And Philip had been dipping into the bank's till.

Then, son Duncan, played by George Hamilton, was a playboy bored with auto racing who had his private plane hijacked to the country where his college roommate was a guerrilla leader.

The settings are opulent and the acting adequate. However, there is nobody around to identify with—everyone seems selfish and unsympathetic.

"Love, American Style," in its ABC premiere, consisted of three playlets. Two were amusing even though the payoffs were telegraphed. The third missed its comedy mark by a mile.

Michael Callan played a divorced man visited by his ex-wife—Penny Fuller—just as he expected to present this new girl with an engagement ring. The ex-wife slipped on the ring which, of course, stuck, thus precipitating a lot of broad comedy until the happy ending.

Flip Wilson and Gail Fisher were attractive in a sketch about an arrogant pool hustler being taken by a lady who wielded a deadly cue.

Robert Cummings and Jane Wyatt, as parents deciding to slip the pill to their unsuspecting 18-year-old daughter, were caught in an unfortunate playlet. But two out of three isn't bad, and the device that permits an assortment of short subjects in one time period has possibilities.

Earlier, NBC remodeled its daytime schedule with three new game shows and a soap opera.

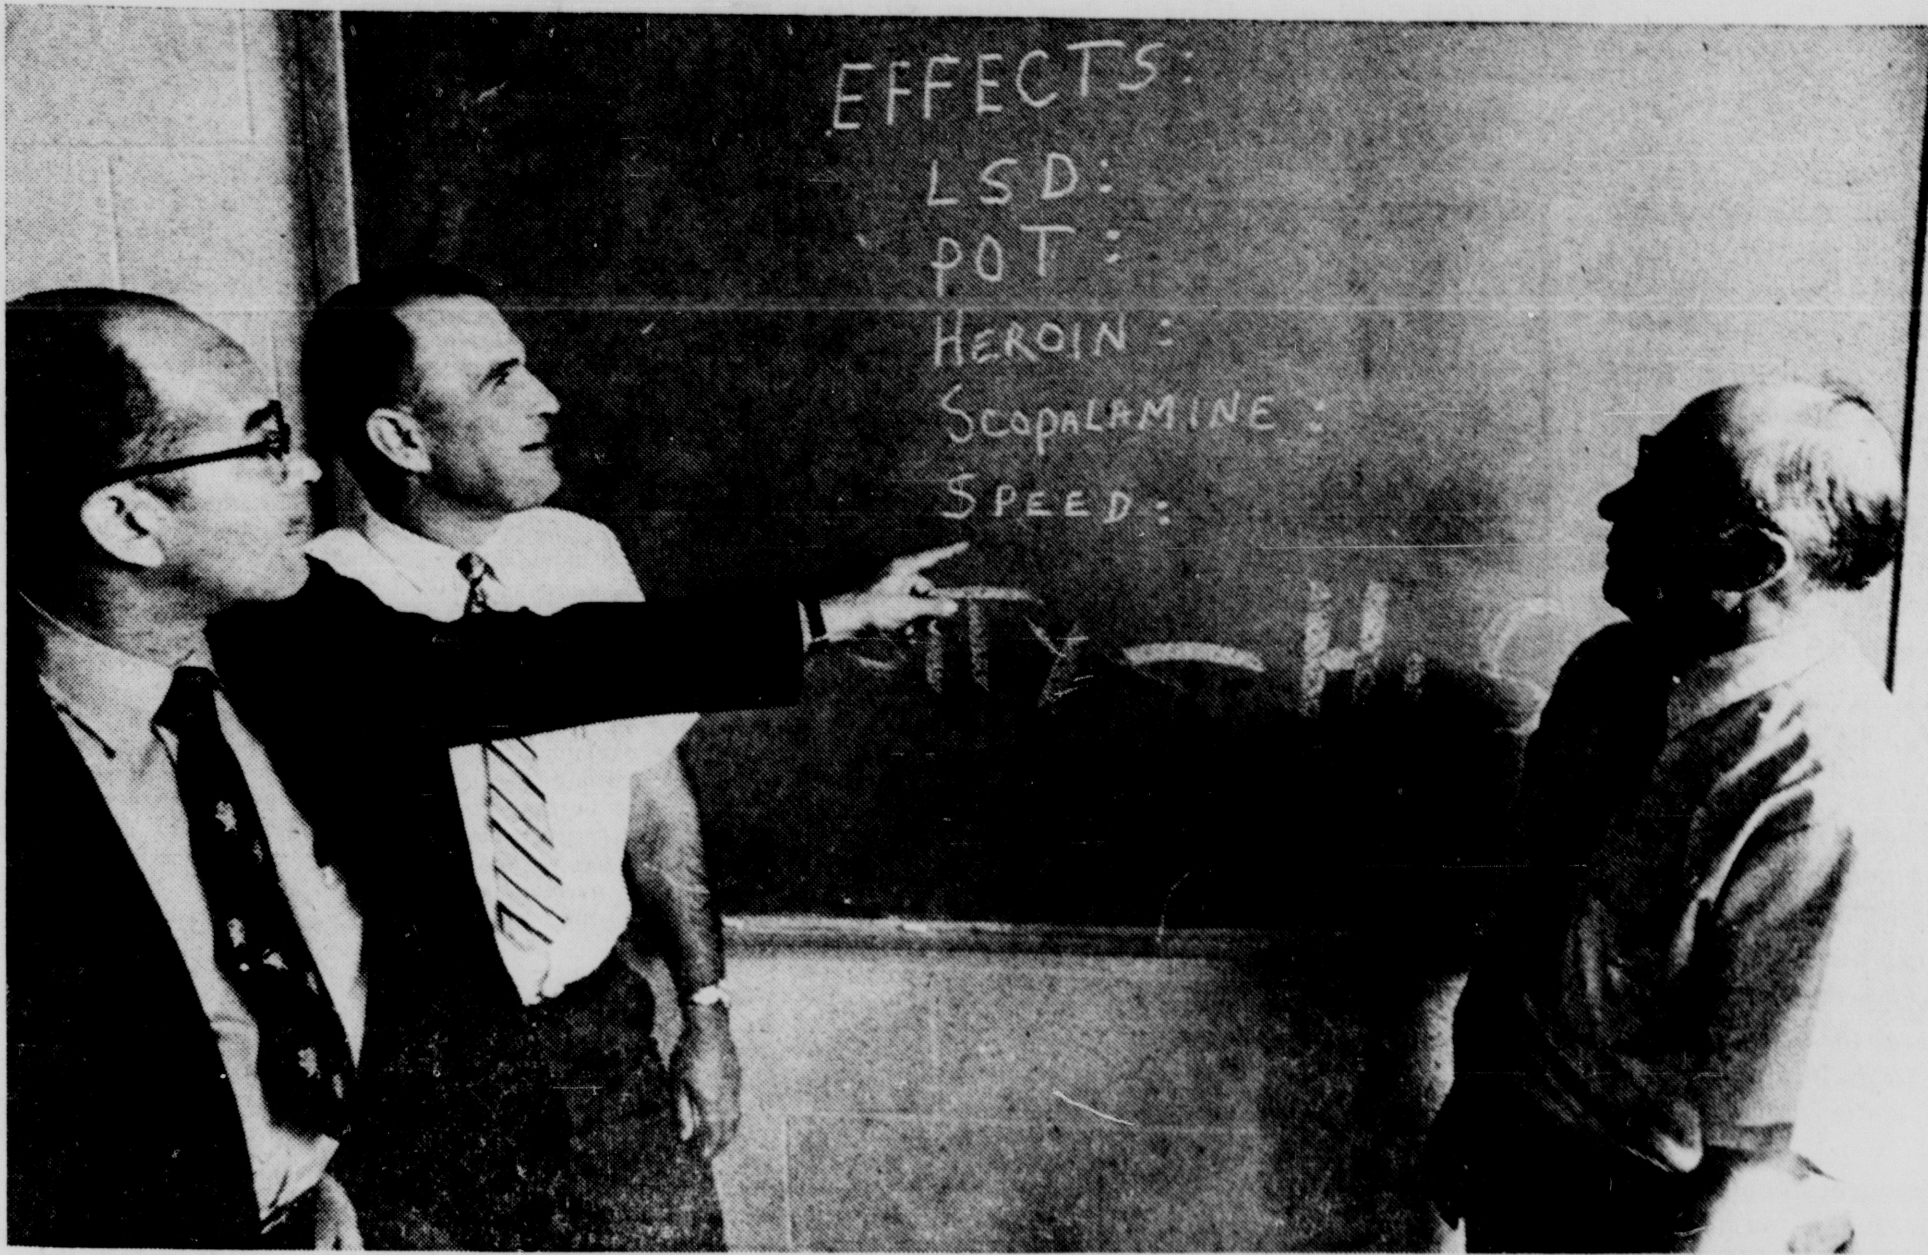

"Sale of the Century" is standard quiz show stuff interrupted occasionally to permit the studio contestants to use their winnings to buy such items as $375 worth of steaks for $8.95 or an electric organ worth $823 for $23.95.

"Name Droppers" has one person claiming an association with each of three celebrity guests while an audience jury guesses which story is true.

"Letters to Laugh-In" consists of reading jokes—mostly old and dreadful—sent in by viewers. They are graded by a laugh meter.

"Bright Promise," the serial, is set in a coed college. The first episode had the college president and the dean of women worrying about dropouts and the new freedoms.

Gold Brings Ghost Town Back To Life Again

By MIKE DOAN
Associated Press Writer
VANDERBILT, Calif. (AP) — In the 1890s, when this desert town was home to 2,000 lusty miners and Wyatt Earp's brother Virgil ran the Gold Bar Saloon, they scooped more than $1 million in gold from the barren hills.

Study Institute Chief To Retire

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Robert M. Hutchins, founder and board chairman of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, says he is getting ready to retire.

Hutchins, 70, was president of the University of Chicago at 30 and commented in an interview:

"I've been an administrative officer of one institution or another for more than 40 years. I'm tired and I want to get rid of administrative duties as soon as possible."

He indicated he might retire formally at the annual meeting in December of the Fund for the Republic, which operates the center.

It was easy pickings getting gold near the surface in the days when Las Vegas, 69 miles north, was just a water hole.

But, when miners reached the underground water level, the digging got tough for crude equipment of the times. With the depression of 1896, Vanderbilt shut down. Since then, except for a futile try in the 1930s, the jagged 4,000-foot hills have not known the chatter of mining tools.

But now, with modern equipment and new processes for extracting gold from chemical compounds, Vanderbilt is alive again.

Where old-timers crushed the ore and recovered pure gold, the new miners use a chemical brine to process sulfides of gold. Of course, it's not quite the same. Jack Jordan, 38, boss of the operation, travels by auto rather than horse, carries a briefcase and is responsible to a board of directors.

He's backed by 40 California investors, many in the computer and electronic fields, who set up a $2.3-million operation.

"The old-timers weren't dumb," Jordan said. "They knew the gold was there. They just couldn't get it."

Jordan's firm, Heavy Metals Corp., has drilled a 13-foot-diameter shaft to a vein just where old maps said it would be.

The vein, Jordan said is 7 to 12 feet in diameter, 600 feet long, and since it was tapped in early September has been yielding ore assaying $50 a ton.

That is enough to make a profit even though the U.S. price ceiling of $35 an ounce has virtually killed gold mining in the once booming West.

In many of California's gold mine areas, there's still plenty of gold but you can't get it out and make a profit a $35 an ounce. Several old mines have become tourist attractions.

Jordan says his firm hopes to extract $50 million to $100 million worth of gold. The mining operation also will yield copper and silver.

The 12 miners at the digs are, unlike the old-timers, family men. They live in house trailers, set amid weird-looking Joshua trees overlooking a barren valley. Nearby are the collapsing remains of the old ghost town. When the processing mill opens this winter, the crew will increase to 30.

About the name, Vanderbilt, Jordan said, "The town was named after Cornelius Vanderbilt, the railroad magnate. He never was here. The people just said they were going to be rich like Vanderbilt."

Air Jam Action Near

"We are on the verge of a real emergency situation." With these words Transportation Secretary John Volpe led a battery of administration spokesmen before the House Ways and Means Committee to urge Congress to act on legislation to aid the nation's airports.

There has been little disagreement in Congress on the need for constructive action to alleviate congested airports. But because new major construction programs would involve additional taxes of one form or another on the industry, there has been little action on administration proposals.

The House committee, however, soon will act on the administration's tax plan to finance new runway construction and aircraft monitoring equipment.

By emphasizing the critical traffic problems at many metropolitan airports, administration spokesmen are finding few congressmen willing to quibble about new revenues needed to finance major improvements. There is optimism that a new revenue-producing package will be enacted before the end of the year.

Draft Reform

In coupling his announcement that draft callups for the remainder of the year will be reduced by 50,000 with an appeal to Congress to get busy on draft reform, President Nixon makes it obvious that major changes in the draft will take place this year.

If Congress fails to act on reform by the end of the year, Mr. Nixon said, he will see to it — by executive order — that his major reform proposal at least is put into effect. That is the plan to reduce liability to the draft from seven years to one — the age of 19.

Draft reform has more going for it than removing a cause celebre among campus militants. The present system is discriminatory, disruptive and unfair. Those reasons are sufficient for Congress to want to take deliberate steps of its own to maintain authorized troop levels by some more equitable method.

Doing so by congressional action is preferable to making a major change by executive order. But obviously the President senses an urgency in this which Congress has chosen to ignore.

Laff-A-Day

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

JUST AFTER Calvin Coolidge moved into the White House, a Treasury Department executive made a special trip there to personally deliver the new President's first pay check. Silent Cal pocketed the check without a word, but just as the Treasury man was leaving the room, managed an icy smile and a most sincere, "Come again!"

Boston is like no other city in America. Its hotels are different, too. When you're not allowed to go out of a certain door in most hostels, you'll be warned by a preemptory sign reading, "No exit." In Boston's Ritz, however, the warning on such a door reads, "This is not an accredited egress door."

One early summer evening, an elderly guest asked a Ritz attendant, "Is the roof garden open for dancing yet?" "No, sir," was the respectful reply. "The roof is closed this evening." What he neglected to add was that the roof garden had been closed a good twenty-five years ago.

OVERHEARD:

Father welcoming his daughter's date for the evening: "She'll be right down. How about a couple of games of chess?" Between games in a bowling tourney: "Next time she takes a plane to her mother's, I'm going to try to ticket her as a piece of luggage. That way, maybe they'll lose her!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A middle-aged woman, on whom I had operated, was brought to my office for her first postoperative visit. I had known this family for a long time and had, in fact, been involved with many facets of their lives. She was accompanied by her husband and a 21-year-old son.

I remembered the boy rather well because I had written a letter of recommendation for him to a local university. I recalled, too, that it was a disappointment to me that he had dropped out of school after six months.

During a casual discussion, my eyes lit on his hand and it gave me a sick feeling when I realized that the closed-off veins on the top of the hand meant heroin addiction. Almost in disbelief I told him my suspicions while we were alone and learned that he had been "shooting heroin" into the veins for two years.

This was happening to him at the age of 20 and already he was spending $42.00 a day to sustain his habit. He got this money, as many addicts do, by lying, cheating, stealing and even mugging. A pretty horrible picture for a young man brought up by a gentle middle-class family now unsuspectingly harboring this disaster within their home.

With his permission, I told his parents and saw their world suddenly collapse in absolute disbelief. I had to present the ghastliness of this catastrophe and told them the difficulties they would have to face.

When I suggested a particular doctor specializing in drug addiction, the young man said, "I think I can do it myself because I have been able to do it eight times before." This astonishing statement was made without his understanding that all of these eight attempts were failures, and that I wished he had been able to stop once.

It might interest all the youngsters who speak glibly about the non-addictive qualities of marijuana to know that this young man, like thousands of others, "began on pot, grass and weed."

When I asked him how he got hooked on heroin, he said, "We were sitting around smoking pot and one of the guys was shooting. He dared me to try it and I was trapped by heroin in ten days." This sad story needs to be pounded into the heads of the youngsters who think they know all the answers about marijuana but don't know that smoking it is smoking dynamite that can ruin their lives.

I am in despair about the cure of a dope addict because my experiences have been so disappointing. I have followed dope addicts in and out of hospitals, in and out of jails, and in and out of various groups who think that "their" way is the only way to cure an addict. I feel a deep sense of hopelessness for this young man, even though he promises and perhaps believes that he will break the habit.

I know I will seem partisan when I speak enthusiastically about Synanon because of the controversy that revolves around this organization. Yet the gratifying results I personally have known depended on the attitudes, teachings and the facilities of Synanon. There is hope in some of the new drugs, too.

Synanon now is a way of life for its members. Those who can live within the restricted limits find inner peace and happiness and freedom from the shackles of addiction.

The Ingenious American

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
S.T. THOMAS, VIRGIN ISLANDS — Back on the U.S. mainland the Nixon Administration is discovering that it takes more than fiscal and Federal Reserve clampdowns to choke back the natural surge of the American economy. The taxpayer moonlights to keep his monthly payments going. Wives take jobs. The credit card business assumes new dimensions every day. And, for islands such as the U.S. Virgins, lucky it is that the Age of Affluence — and in-and-out-of-season vacations — seems as hard to kill as a snake before sundown.

But, you say, there must be a ceiling to it all somewhere, especially in Caribbean play spots. For example, capital for hotels is growing scarce, and where it can be had it comes at fantastic interest rates. So the boom in the Virgins, which live on the overflow of continental well-being, would seem to be self-limiting.

Alas for the hopes of President Nixon — and of Federal Reserve chief William McChesney Martin — for a quickly cooling economy, the ingenuity of their countrymen is endless. You see it here in the Virgins, on St. Thomas and on its neighboring island of St. Croix, in the sudden growth of the condominium apartment. But it is not just that U.S. mainlanders are seeking vacation homes which they might rent out at a profit when they are not using them. The truth is that resort hotel capitalists, faced with the high cost of money, have discovered in condominium building a way of obtaining capital for a hotel without putting up any money themselves.

The trick is this: you plan a cluster of two and three bedroom condominiums, neatly spaced around a central administration building, and sell them: off while they are still on the drawing board to individuals at prices that range from $40,000 or $50,000 up. Then, with your capital in hand, you construct what you have already sold.

But you do it on a lease-back arrangement. The contract stipulates that the new condominium owner will only make personal use of his vacation hideaway for six weeks out of the year. For the remaining forty-six weeks the condominium will be at the disposal of the "hotel" owner, to be rented as seaside bedroom space. The profits, of the hotel keeping will, of course, be shared between the management and the individual owner of the property.

On St. Thomas there are three hotel-associated condominium projects, at Cowpet Bay, at Sapphire Bay and at a place called Pineapple. The last named will feature three-bedroom apartments, each with its separate bath. The "hotel" will be able to rent each separate establishment as three hotel rooms when the owners are absent.

The new device would seem to be a direct reaction to the Nixon Administration's program for choking down the boom in order to stop inflation. Whether this action will be overdone remains to be seen. On a trip around the larger island of St. Croix I was shown condominium projects at a rate that exceeded my ability to jot down the names in a notebook. Granted that the American hunger for the sun in winter is endless, it must still strain the jet airliner.

Brachiosaurus, Tyrannosaurus, and their entire tribe of reptiles were wiped out about 70 million years ago. Authorities still uncertain of the actual cause, have variously blamed the downfall of dinosaurs on volcanic dust, meteorites, cosmic radiation, sunspots, disease, hormone imbalance, heat sterilization, dwindling brain power, racial old age and even what scholars term Weitschmerz, or "world weariness."

business to get enough people south to fill the space being prepared for them in the Virgins. But they are talking of a new jet port on rugged St. Thomas, to be made by levelling off some hilltops and bridging over the space between islets protecting a lagoon. So the thousands of condominium apartments operated by the new "hotel's" promise a pay-off even though some bottlenecks remain to be broken.

As one who delights in watching the spirit of man conquer bureaucratic and other restrictions, even at the cost of inflation, I was charmed by the Virgins. There is so much work to be had on St. Thomas and neighboring St. Croix that the local businessmen have had to import 15,000 "bonded" aliens from the neighboring islands, mainly British, that stretch all the way down to Trinidad off the Venezuelan coast. This gives a great fillip to a region that desperately needs all the help it can get. To break a local travel bottleneck, the recently retired chief pilot of Pan American World Airways, Captain Charles Blair, has bought up a fleet of old Grumman Goose flying boats, which he operates between St. Thomas and St. Croix and to Fajardo in Puerto Rico. He has brought his bride, the movie actress, Maureen O'Hara, to the islands, to live in a duplicate of an Irish castle. And then there are the hydrofoils, built in Italy, Norway and Russia, which will open many options to visitors wishing to reach the British Virgins and other spots in the Lesser Antilles at a fast speed.

Such is the U.S. economy at a growing point. It is my guess that it cannot be choked.

WASHINGTON MEMO

By Congressman
CHALMERS P. WYLIE
15th District of Ohio

With the President's announcement to defer 75 per cent of the dollar amount of previously planned new construction programs, the Alum Creek Dam Project came to the forefront again. Although the site of the dam is located in Delaware County in Congressman Devine's district, it is designed to provide an additional source of water supply for the city of Columbus, and one half of the city of Columbus lies in my own congressional district. Then, too, what affects one part of Columbus affects all of Columbus and, indeed, all of Franklin County.

In addition, the Alum Creek Dam is essential as a part of a flood control program in the lower Scioto River Basin which was commenced several years ago. Alum Creek Dam has always had a high priority and everyone seems intent on building a water supply-flood control reservoir on Alum Creek. With the announcement by the President of a 75 per cent reduction in the dollar amount of monies available for new construction, fears were raised that Alum Creek Dam would be further delayed.

Immediately on the heels of the announcement, I wrote to Mr. Dale McOmber, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Review, who referred me to Colonel Roush, District Engineer, Huntington District Corps of Engineers, who is the agency head in charge of this project. McOmber said that individual agencies should be contacted for information on specific projects. Colonel Roush said that he was awaiting word from the Bureau of the Budget and action by the 91st Congress.

I again communicated with Mr. McOmber in these words: "The water supply problem for the City of Columbus is rapidly approaching the critical stage. Surely, there is someone who can be more specific than the responses I have received thus far."

Further, on the subject of water, the House passed by a vote of 364 yeas to 16 nays a bill to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to engage in a feasibility study into the development of certain water resources. With the rapid increase in population and the increasing problem of water pollution, an adequate water supply must be of primary concern. Many studies have been made concerning this problem and much money has been spent on them, leaving one reluctant to authorize additional appropriations for another study.

I voted for the bill after listening to the debate as to

Much of the billions of dollars in funds, goods, and services which the Federal Government distributes each year to State and local governments is allocated according to date provided by the census. Much of the information is used by chambers of commerce, market research organizations, labor unions, and by voluntary, professional trade, educational, and charitable associations to carry out their purpose. Educational and research institutions resort to information obtained from a census to formulate forecasts of future needs.

Much criticism has been lodged against the nature of the questions proposed on the 1970 census form because of the fear of invasion of privacy by the Federal Government. Among other things, the bill which passed the House is to assure the confidentiality of any census information obtained by the Bureau of the Census. Any information other than that needed for headcount will be carefully guarded by persons who need to meet certain security tests and the present statute is amended to sharply increase the severity of punishment applicable to any employee of the Bureau of the Census who divulges "confidential information."

The legislation also removes the jail sentence penalty currently applicable to both individuals and organizations, for either refusal to answer census questionnaires or willful falsification of the information being provided.

NEW YORK (AP) — As the housing market cools off, chilled by high interest rates and tight money, the tempers of the nation's builders are heating to the point at which blood boils.

As one home builders' representative put it: "We're tired of getting wrung out every few years in anti-inflation programs. Builders are angry about being made the scapegoats of financial policy."

They have a point. A rather traditional way to cool an overheated economy is to make money tight or more expensive. And when that happens, the housing market almost invariably is the first to suffer.

High mortgage rates not only discourage buyers, they also create a difficult situation for sellers. If buyers can't get money, sellers can't be sellers.

The result of such inactivity can be disastrous for work crews. Most builders are small and cannot afford to keep carpenters on the payroll if there isn't work for them. The carpenter soon finds his skills are eagerly sought in other industries. He and the builder part forever. Something of the sort is now happening, and the builders are quick to point out that all society—not just homebuilders—is suffering.

They cite a curious contradiction: While America is running a deficit of hundreds of thousands of housing units, government policy continues to force the housing industry deeper into a recession.

The Housing Act of 1968 recognized the need for 26 million housing units in 10 years, or an average of 2.6 million a year. The present rate, however, is only about one-half that—and headed down.

From all over the country, builders are scheduled to bring their protest to Washington Tuesday under the aegis of the National Association of Home Builders. Congressmen are expected to get an earful.

"Tempers are high," said a spokesman for the association, "But we'll try to keep it on a businesslike basis."

The biggest gripe, it seems, is that "money is going to everything but mortgages," according to the association spokesman. "We contend that we've got to divert $10 billion into housing."

The money might not be going to "everything" else, but for certain a lot of it is going into plant expansion, borrowed by large corporations that manage to pay the high rates that lesser borrower cannot afford.

Some of the builders' suggestions for channeling money their way involve legislation, others involve pressure on private areas of the marketplace.

One sweeping change that some builders want to push: A rollback by commercial banks of recent increase in the prime lending rate, now 8.5 per cent.

Banks, being commercial rather than altruistic enterprises, prefer to make loans at the highest rates of interest, and naturally do not like to invest in home mortgages, many of which are held to 7.5 per cent by state laws.

Since savings and loan associations provide much of the money for housing, the builders are expected also to seek government support for a plan to exempt from income tax much of the interest earning on S&L deposits.

The builders also have their eyes on the huge sums accumulated by pension and retirement trusts, much of which is invested in securities. The builders want to encourage these trusts to invest in mortgages, which offer security if not the highest return.

Congressmen also are expected to hear arguments for directing the Federal Reserve Board to buy obligations of the Federal National Mortgage Association and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Both these institutions support the home mortgage market, and would be in a position to exert more influence with Fed support.

Air Jam Action Near

"We are on the verge of a real emergency situation." With these words Transportation Secretary John Volpe led a battery of administration spokesmen before the House Ways and Means Committee to urge Congress to act on legislation to aid the nation's airports.

There has been little disagreement in Congress on the need for constructive action to alleviate congested airports. But because new major construction programs would involve additional taxes of one form or another on the industry, there has been little action on administration proposals.

The House committee, however, soon will act on the administration's tax plan to finance new runway construction and aircraft monitoring equipment.

By emphasizing the critical traffic problems at many metropolitan airports, administration spokesmen are finding few congressmen willing to quibble about new revenues needed to finance major improvements. There is optimism that a new revenue-producing package will be enacted before the end of the year.

Draft Reform

In coupling his announcement that draft callups for the remainder of the year will be reduced by 50,000 with an appeal to Congress to get busy on draft reform, President Nixon makes it obvious that major changes in the draft will take place this year.

If Congress fails to act on reform by the end of the year, Mr. Nixon said, he will see to it — by executive order — that his major reform proposal at least is put into effect. That is the plan to reduce liability to the draft from seven years to one — the age of 19.

Draft reform has more going for it than removing a cause celebre among campus militants. The present system is discriminatory, disruptive and unfair. Those reasons are sufficient for Congress to want to take deliberate steps of its own to maintain authorized troop levels by some more equitable method.

Doing so by congressional action is preferable to making a major change by executive order. But obviously the President senses an urgency in this which Congress has chosen to ignore.

Try and Stop Me

JUST AFTER Calvin Coolidge moved into the White House, a Treasury Department executive made a special trip there to personally deliver the new President's first pay check. Silent Cal pocketed the check without a word, but just as the Treasury man was leaving the room, managed an icy smile and a most sincere, "Come again!"

Boston is like no other city in America. Its hotels are different, too. When you're not allowed to go out of a certain door in most hostels, you'll be warned by a preemptory sign reading, "No exit." In Boston's Ritz, however, the warning on such a door reads, "This is not an accredited egress door."

One early summer evening, an elderly guest asked a Ritz attendant, "Is the roof garden open for dancing yet?" "No, sir," was the respectful reply. "The roof is closed this evening." What he neglected to add was that the roof garden had been closed a good twenty-five years ago.

OVERHEARD: Father welcoming his daughter's date for the evening: "She'll be right down. How about a couple of games of chess?"

Between games in a bowling tourney: "Next time she takes a plane to her mother's, I'm going to try to tick her as a piece of luggage. That way, maybe they'll lose her!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A middle-aged woman, whom I had operated, was brought to my office for first postoperative visit. I had known this family for a long time and had, in fact, been involved with many facets of their lives. She was accompanied by her husband and a 21-year-old son.

I remembered the boy rather well because I had written a letter of recommendation for him to a local university. I recalled, too, that he was a disappointment to me that he had dropped out of school after six months.

During a casual discussion, my eyes lit on his hand and it gave me a sick feeling when I realized that the closed-off veins on the top of the hand meant heroin addiction. Amost in disbelief I told him my suspicions while we were alone and learned that he had been "shooting heroin" into the veins for two years.

This was happening to him at the age of 20 and already he was spending $42.00 a day to sustain his habit. He got this money, as many addicts do, by lying, cheating, stealing and even mugging. A pretty horrible picture for a young man brought up by a gentle middle-class family now unsuspectingly harboring this disaster within their home.

With his permission, I told his parents and saw their world suddenly collapse in absolute disbelief. I had to present the ghastliness of this catastrophe and told them the difficulties they would have to face.

When I suggested a particular doctor specializing in drug addiction, the young man said, "I think I can do it myself because I have been able to do it eight times before." This astonishing statement was made without his understanding that all of these eight attempts were failures, and that I wished he had been able to stop once.

It might interest all the youngsters who speak glibly about the non-addictive qualities of marijuana to know that this young man, like thousands of others, "began on pot, grass and weed."

When I asked him how he got hooked on heroin, he said, "We were sitting around smoking pot and one of the guys was shooting. He dared me to try it and I was trapped by heroin in ten days." This sad story needs to be pounded into the heads of the youngsters who think they know all the answers about marijuana but don't know that smoking it is smoking dynamite that can ruin their lives.

I am in despair about the cure of a dope addict because my experiences have been so disappointing. I have followed dope addicts in and out of hospitals, in and out of jails, and in and out of various groups who think that "their" way is the only way to cure an addict. I feel a deep sense of hopelessness for this young man, even though he promises and perhaps believes that he will break the habit.

I know I will seem partisan when I speak enthusiastically about Synanon because of the controversy that revolves around this organization. Yet the gratifying results I personally have known depended on the attitudes, teachings and the facilities of Synanon. There is hope in some of the new drugs, too.

The Ingenious American

S. THOMAS, VIRGIN ISLANDS — Back on the U.S. mainland the Nixon Administration is discovering that it takes more than fiscal and Federal Reserve clankings to choke back the natural surge of the American economy. The taxpayer moonlights to keep his monthly payments going. Wives take jobs. The credit card business assumes new dimensions every day. I voted for the bill after listening to the debate as to the Venezuelan coast. This gives a great fillip to a region that desperately needs all the help it can get. To break a local travel bottleneck, the recently retired chief pilot of Pan American World Airways, Captain Charles Blair, has bought up a fleet of old Grumman Goose flying boats, which he operates between St. Thomas and St. Croix and to Fajardo in Puerto Rico. He has brought his bride, the movie actress, Maureen O'Hara, to the islands, to live in a duplicate of an Irish castle. And then there are the hydrofoils, built in Italy, Norway and Russia, which will open many options to visitors wishing to reach the British Virgins and other spots in the Lesser Antilles at a fast speed.

Such is the U.S. economy at a growing point. It is my guess that it cannot be choked.

WASHINGTON MEMO

By Congressman
CHALMERS P. WYLIE
15th District of Ohio

With the President's announcement to defer 75 per cent of the dollar amount of previously planned new construction programs, the Alum Creek Dam Project came to the forefront again. Although the site of the dam is located in Delaware County in Congressman Devine's district, it is designed to provide an additional source of water supply for the city of Columbus, and one half of the city of Columbus lies in my own congressional district. Then, too, what affects one part of Columbus affects all of Columbus and, indeed, all of Franklin County.

In addition, the Alum Creek Dam is essential as a part of a flood control program in the lower Scioto River Basin which was commenced several years ago. Alum Creek Dam has always had a high priority and everyone seems intent on building a water supply-flood control reservoir on Alum Creek. With the announcement by the President of a 75 per cent reduction in the dollar amount of monies available for new construction, fears were raised that Alum Creek Dam would be further delayed.

Immediately on the heels of the announcement, I wrote to Mr. Dale McOmber, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Review, who referred me to Colonel Roush, District Engineer, Huntington District Corps of Engineers, who is the agency head in charge of this project. McOmber said that individual agencies should be contacted for information on specific projects. Colonel Roush said that he was awaiting word from the Bureau of the Budget and action by the 91st Congress.

I again communicated with Mr. McOmber in these words: "The water supply problem for the City of Columbus is rapidly approaching the critical stage. Surely, there is someone who can be more specific than the responses I have received thus far."

Further, on the subject of water, the House passed by a vote of 364 yeas to 16 nays a bill to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to engage in a feasibility study into the development of certain water resources. With the rapid increase in population and the increasing problem of water pollution, an adequate water supply must be of primary concern. Many studies have been made concerning this problem and much money has been spent on them, leaving one reluctant to authorize additional appropriations for another study.

I voted for the bill after listening to the debate as to

Much of the billions of dollars in funds, goods, and services which the Federal Government distributes each year to State and local governments is allocated according to date provided by the census. Much of the information is used by chambers of commerce, market research organizations, labor unions, and by voluntary, professional trade, educational, and charitable associations to carry out their purpose. Educational and research institutions resort to information obtained from a census to formulate forecasts of future needs.

Much criticism has been lodged against the nature of the questions proposed on the 1970 census form because of the fear of invasion of privacy by the Federal Government. Among other things, the bill which passed the House is to assure the confidentiality of any census information obtained by the Bureau of the Census. Any information other than that needed for headcount will be carefully guarded by persons who need to meet certain security tests and the present statute is amended to sharply increase the severity of punishment applicable to any employee of the Bureau of the Census who divulges confidential information.

The legislation also removes the jail sentence penalty currently applicable to both individuals and organizations, for either refusal to answer census questionnaires or willful falsification of the information being provided.

There were 29 bright-eyed and bushy-tailed females who departed this area by chartered bus at the ungodly hour of 5:50 a.m. last Tuesday morning bound for Cincinnati and the Paul Dixon show and a tour of Proctor and Gamble.

It was fun, entertaining, educational and quite a happening. Sponsored by the Deercreek Variety Homemakers Extension Group with Mrs. Paul (Louise) Drummond and Mrs. Paul (Joan) Dawson doing the groundwork the several members and their friends participating were:

Elsie Wright, Pearl Cochenour, Eileen Easterday, Della Lemming, Minnie Recob, Janie Grigsby, Frances Bidwell, Dorothy Carle, Fannie Bidwell, Helen and Kathy Diffendai, Ernestine Lewis, Eleanor Wardell, Diane Peck, Louise Drummond, Joan Dawson, Carolyn Sheets, Georgia Dick, Pauline Schooley, Magdalene Fee, Frances Follrod, Agnes (Grandma) Brayshaw, Mae Litter, Frances Cupp, Adrian Merriman, Marvene Dudleson, Martha Krimmel, Marilyn Weiland, Melanie Conley and the good-natured, very patient bus driver, Bill Cox. Several from our group won prizes on the Dixon show.

Tennis Anyone

News about summer happenings still trickle in and the latest to be received concerns the fact that a Tennis Club was organized for beginners by Mrs. Nathan (Ruth) Wilson. Open to Westfall girls, there were eight sessions held at Ted Lewis Park with instructions in playing and scoring given by Mrs. Wilson.

A double elimination tournament was held during the last few days in August with many of the girls participating. A match was two of three sets. The tournament finals were held August 23 with Lu Ann Gifford and Leslie Zimmerman waging a real battle for champion. Winning the match 6-2 and 6-1 the trophy went to Lu Ann who was undefeated throughout the tournament.

Ruthie Wilson says that Lu Ann's left-hand accuracy and speed on the court are her two most noticeable assets and with three more years of high school tennis she could become an outstanding college competitor. Being defeated only for the championship, runner-up Leslie's strongest point is her backhand serving which is the weakest part of most girls' game.

The trophies were presented to the girls during a picnic enjoyed by the families. A generous gift certificate was presented Mrs. Wilson for her dedicated efforts. A possibility of continuing the Tennis Club was discussed and it is felt that a worthwhile goal would be to start a program for building tennis courts at school. (Are you listening Booster members?) Or for that matter how about at the Williamsport Community Park?

Westfall students deriving the benefits of the tennis program beside the two top winners were: Nancy and Bev McDill; Dona and Ann Straley, Denise Morrison, Donna Garrison, Patty and Judy Schein, Joyce Stevens, Barb Justus, Nancy Schein, Brenda Reid, Bonnie Long, Kay and Cora Whitesed, Susan Custer and Jan Thompson.

Important Date

An extremely important meeting affecting the residents of this area will be held at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 21 (Tuesday) at the Legion Hall. This meeting, in conjunction with the regular Park Council committee meeting, will bring forth information and hopefully procedures on how to get "cracking" on a much needed swimming pool.

Robert E. Sly of Mt. Sterling and president of the Board of Directors of the Four Seasons Recreation Inc. and Mr. Leatherwood of Ashville will be guest speakers. Harry Keller Jr., encourages the attendance of all interested persons.

With a truly saddened heart we bid our final good-bye to dear friend and kindly neighbor, Glenn Whitten Sr. We all mourn his passing and to his devoted family in their hour of grief we offer these time honored words of comfort — "God understands your heartache. He knows the bitter pain — O, trust Him in the darkness. You can not trust in vain. He understands your longing. Your deepest grief He shares; Then let Him bear your burden. He understands and cares."

We have said it many times but can it be repeated too often that we really have the greatest folks ever here in our village? My Beck's paper route customers are so kind, considerate and generous. Never any collection problems and many of them pay in advance! Several are wont to play her with goodies and being a growing teen-ager she loves it. (I managed to get one of the cookies Saturday. Mrs. Ebenhack and wow! it was delish!)

Week ago Saturday night we had a "bash" at our "pad" in the form of a fish fry with papa Bill being chef for the evening. Guests were: Paul and Ruth Huff with Don, Joe, Kim and their houseguest Joey Lemaster, A. J. and Juanita Cook and Shana, Maria Hastings and her Walter and Harry, David and Marabel Drummond and girls

Connie, Sandee and Joy, Marvin (Beard man) and Dolly Thompson and their Vicki, Brad, Shirley and guest Kathy Schleich, Harvey and Margene Looney and Jamey, Jim Montgomery, "Cotton" and Helen Timmons all from here and driving over from Roundtown, Forrest and Leona Easterday and their two (granddotters) (my own word) Rhonda Bartholomeu and Robin Russell.

Helen Timmons, by the way, brought the most scrumptious dessert ever and you just must give it a try. (Take note you busload of gals — this is the recipe).

In large bowl combine 2 cups flour; 2 cups sugar; 1/2 teaspoon salt.

In small pan bring to boil: 1 stick oleo (no substitute); 1 cup water; 2 tablespoons cocoa; 1/2 cup crisco. Pour over above flour mix and stir well. In small bowl: Dissolve 1 teaspoon soda in 1/2 cup milk plus 1 tablespoon vinegar and add 2 eggs slightly beaten; 1 teaspoon vanilla. Add to other mixture and blend together. Pour into greased and floured 12 by 18 cookie sheet and bake 25 minutes at 350 degrees.

During last five minutes of baking — melt 1 stick oleo and 3 tablespoons cocoa. Add 1 box powdered sugar; 1 teaspoon vanilla; 1/2 cup nuts (optional) and 4 to 6 tablespoons milk. Stir well and ice cake soon as removed from oven. Happy eating!

Speaking of Helen and spouse "Cotton" (Russell) they had as Sunday (week ago) dinner guests Loring and Mabel Stoer of near Darbyville and the Stoer's employee, Mr. Gene Phillips, Roy (Tuk) Morgan and son Jeff of Columbus. Afternoon guests were Warner Lee and Mickey Timmons and son Jay of Chillicothe.

Good "ole" George and Marilyn Lemaster with Joey, Stephanie and Paula Rae brightened the area last weekend when they crossed the Ohio from their St. Albans, W. Va. home and returned for a couple days to their old stomping grounds. While here they bunked in at the Donnie Bill and Ruth Schleich abode. Daughter Cathy Lemaster, a member of St. Albans pep section, remained at home since their team had a game.

Shirley Thompson was the Friday overnight guest of her school chum Kathy Schleich

A well-stocked canine wardrobe may include an imitation leopard-skin coat (about $25), a striped raincoat with matching hood ($5), four rainboots ($2.50), and a variety of rhinestone leashes and collars (13 to $25 or more).

and on Saturday night it was Kathy's turn to sleep over at Shirley's. Meanwhile back at the ranch — er, farm, Cindy, Janet and Laura Schleich were helping mom and dad with the chores and having a ball with little ones, Stephanie and Paula Rae Lemaster.

Down our way, neighbors in good standing, Harry and Emma Puffinbarger had as weekend guests, Emma's granddaughter, Mrs. Judy Steinhauer and sons Joey and Jamey of Waldo.

This most recent weekend found the Puffinbargers and their good buddies, the Robert Lists and sons of near Ashville and Mrs. Noah List near Pherson off to Sugar Creek Country and the Swiss Cheese Festival. They kindly brought us some of the wares and need I say how really lip-smacking good it is.

Other neighbors on the go-go were Walter and Harry Hastings who left late Saturday night to attend motorcycle races somewhere in West Virginia on Sunday.

Enjoying the chicken supper at Dry Run Church on Egypt Pike week-ago Saturday night were Herschel and Mae Litter and visiting afterwards with son Eddie, his Peggy and their Tammy, Tracy and Patti of Londonderry. On Sunday, Peggy and the girls visited here.

Most of us take vacation trips in the hot summer months but not so Harry (Booge) and Thelma Puffinbarger who used their "noggins" and just recently took their vacations. He is the David Davies man and Thelma has the cheery hello at the local post-office. They were privileged to see Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower leaving Meditation Chapel where Dwight D. Eisenhower is buried. This was her first trip there since the burial. In Abilene they toured also the Eisenhower museum, library, family home and Sculpture Hall. Their travels took them into Kansas, the cotton fields of Arkansas, Tennessee and Nashville with its Grand Ole Opry House, Country Music Hall of Fame and Museum — up through Kentucky and its beautiful horse farms, lush blue grass, many points of interest — across the Ohio and homeward bound.

Drug Probe Announced

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police climaxed a three-month long narcotics investigation early today and began rounding up 30 persons named in secret indictments on a variety of charges.

The roundup, which began around midnight Monday in a Calhoun Street area hippie colony near the University of Cincinnati, yielded nine arrests and 21 other persons were being sought.

The indictments were returned Monday by the Hamilton County Grand Jury. Police said they were the result of an undercover investigation by agents of Ohio Atty. Gen. Paul Brown and the Cincinnati Vice Squad.

Police narcotics specialist Donald Stoll called the raid "significant."

He said those arrested were believed to have been selling LSD, heroin and marijuana to young people who frequented the area.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Two Can't Live As Cheaply As One!

DEAR ABBY: I rented a room to a very nice, young professor who's about 28 years old. He is a perfect gentleman, neat and quiet and he always pays his rent on time, but here is the problem:

For the past month he has had a young lady staying with him. He didn't "sneak" her in. She came in with her suitcase and moved in with him like she is his wife. He didn't introduce her to me. I saw her through the window. He never said he had a wife. But he never said he didn't. They leave early in the morning (she works, and he teaches) and they come home together late in the evening. They go away every week-end and there is never a chance to have any conversations with them.

I rented the room as a "single". I have no idea how long she plans to stay with him. Should I charge him double?

LANDLADY IN URBANA
DEAR LANDLADY — If your "single" is sleeping double, charge him accordingly. It's time these two lovebirds learned that two can't live as cheaply as one.

DEAR ABBY: I am one of those women who had her only child late in life — like 45.

My daughter is 6 years old now and every once in a while some clod will ask her if she is spending the day with "GRANNY" — meaning ME!

Can you supply a good squelch-type answer?

A remark like this ruins my day. Thank you.

No "GRANNY".
DEAR NO GRANNY: You had better develop a thicker hide. Clods are not for squelching.

DEAR ABBY: I am one of those foolish wives who insisted that my husband wear his wedding ring at all times. My husband is a maintenance mechanic, and this is what happened. Yesterday, I received a call informing me that my husband was at the hospital! While jumping off a construction truck, he caught his ring on a piece of metal and his finger was practically torn off. I was told he was lucky he wasn't killed as he lost his balance and fell under the wheels of the truck.

Abby, please put this in your column as a warning to other women who want their husbands to wear their wedding rings to work.

AL'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Thank you for your letter. And while we're on the subject, read this one:

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I were married we had a double-ring ceremony, and he promised he would never take his wedding ring off. And he never did. After a few years he gained a little weight and couldn't get it off. My husband was an electrician. Well, to make a long and very tragic story short, his wedding ring wore a tiny hole thru his insulated glove and a fatal contact was made. He died instantly. When his lifeless body was examined, the only sign of injury was a small burn where his wedding ring encircled his finger.

ELECTRICIAN'S WIDOW
so . . . Dear Wife, if your husband works around machines or electricity, tell him to leave all rings at home. If you really love him, that is.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALL MEN BETWEEN 16 and 60: You are in the privileged position of being able to do the "asking." You may be big, handsome, talented, and popular, but unless you have a heart you're nothing. When you attend a dance or a party, pay special attention to at least three girls who are not popular. Find something to compliment them for. Make them feel a little prettier, then watch them "bloom" and actually become prettier before your eyes. Among the quiet, plain-appearing girls are those with special qualities. Modesty, humility, generosity, virtue, and depth. For that is where they usually can be found.

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command has a captured enemy document stating that Hanoi's goals are to inflict heavy American casualties to prevent de-escalation of the Vietnam war while the United States is in a position of strength, official sources said Monday.

The informants said the document was captured north of Saigon Sept. 5 and outlines a program for implementing the Communist Command's battle plans.

However, the disclosure was coupled with an announcement that enemy activity had dropped to its lowest level in Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces since the week ending last July 26.

One source said: "The enemy's intentions remain obscure and his immediate goals are unclear. There has been no evi-

Woman To Face Death Charge In Laskey Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — Carol Ann Estes, 19, awaited a trial date today following her indictment for first degree manslaughter Monday for the killing of Larry Laskey, 30, brother of Postel Laskey on death row in the Ohio Penitentiary.

Police said Mrs. Estes, shot Laskey in a downtown rooming house apartment Aug. 29. She said she shot him because she was being choked.

Laskey had served eight years in prison on a rape conviction.

His brother Postel Laskey, convicted in 1967 for the killing of a secretary, Barbara Bowman, 26, in a taxi cab, was sentenced to death. His appeal is pending before the Ohio Supreme Court.

3 More Ohioans Killed In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department reported Monday three more Ohio have been killed in recent action in Vietnam.

They were:

Train Cars Still Burn

CORNING, Ohio (AP) — Police, firemen and chemical experts this morning kept watch over two burning Penn Central tank cars of gas which forced an estimated 40 families to evacuate their homes following a derailment.

Nineteen cars of a 73-car freight train derailed early Monday morning, rupturing two tanks cars—each containing 97 tons of carbon bisulfide—and damaging several thousand feet of rail.

There were no injuries. Chemical demolition teams from Cleveland arrived in this Perry County community to oversee the transfer this morning of gas from two other derailed tank cars to other cars brought to the scene.

About 250 students at two schools in this village of 1,667 were evacuated along with the families. By late Monday afternoon, Police Chief Frank Wysinski reported the danger period over and allowed the families to return to their homes.

Police To Bring Murder Suspects Back To Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two suspects apprehended in Gallup, N. M., wanted here in connection with the slaying of four women during a holdup, will be returned here today by local police and federal officers.

Waterson Johnson, 22, decided to waive extradition Monday, as had the second suspect, John Leigh, 20. They were held in New Mexico on federal fugitive warrants signed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Apprehension was made by a New Mexico State Police Sunday.

Police here earlier arrested Raymond Kassow, 24, and Carl Ingle, 31, and charged them with four counts each of first degree murder.

The four are accused of killing three women patrons and a secretary at the Cabinet Supreme Savings & Loan Co., in suburban Delhi Township. The robbery netted $275.

Under one heading termed "conspiracies of the United States in the near future," the document said American policy is to de-Americanize the war gradually with emphasis placed on the preservation of U.S. manpower and material strength, trying to end the war in a strong position.

The document instructed enemy troops to destroy the South Vietnamese government and its administrative machinery, increase military action and expand the armed forces; heighten the role of the Viet Cong's revolutionary government; and increase civilian, military and political proselyting.

An official U.S. assessment of the war said elements of four North Vietnamese divisions threatening the 3rd Corps military zone had pulled back to base areas along the Cambodian border, and the enemy 5th Division's "possible movement northward toward the Cambodian border further complicates the situation and offers no tangible indication of the unit's intentions."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Two Can't Live As Cheaply As One!

DEAR ABBY: I rented a room to a very nice, young professor who's about 28 years old. He is a perfect gentleman, neat and quiet and he always pays his rent on time, but here is the problem:

For the past month he has had a young lady staying with him. He didn't "sneak" her in. She came in with her suitcase and moved in with him like she is his wife. He didn't introduce her to me. I saw her through the window. He never said he had a wife. But he never said he didn't. They leave early in the morning (she works, and he teaches) and they come home together late in the evening. They go away every week-end and there is never a chance to have any conversations with them.

I rented the room as a "single". I have no idea how long she plans to stay with him. Should I charge him double?

LANDLADY IN URBANA
DEAR LANDLADY — If your "single" is sleeping double,

charge him accordingly. It's time these two lovebirds learned that two can't live as cheaply as one.

DEAR ABBY: I am one of those women who had her only child late in life — like 45.

My daughter is 6 years old now and every once in a while some clod will ask her if she is spending the day with "GRANNY" — meaning ME!

Can you supply a good squelch-type answer? A remark like this ruins my day. Thank you.

No "GRANNY". You had better develop a thicker hide. Clods are not for squelching.

DEAR ABBY: I am one of those foolish wives who insisted that my husband wear his wedding ring at all times. My husband is a maintenance mechanic, and this is what happened. Yesterday, I received a call informing me that my husband was at the hospital! While jumping off a construction truck, he caught his ring on a piece of metal and his finger was practically torn off. I was told he was lucky he wasn't killed as he lost his balance and fell under the wheels of the truck.

Abby, please put this in your column as a warning to other women who want their husbands to wear their wedding rings to work.

AL'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Thank you for your letter. And while we're on the subject, read this one:

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I were married we had a double-ring ceremony, and he promised he would never take his wedding ring off. And he never did. After a few years he gained a little weight and couldn't get it off. My husband was an electrician. Well, to make a long and very tragic story short, his wedding ring wore a tiny hole thru his insulated glove and a fatal contact was made. He died instantly. When his lifeless body was examined, the only sign of injury was a small burn where his wedding ring encircled his finger.

ELECTRICIAN'S WIDOW
so . . . Dear Wife, if your husband works around machines or electricity, tell him to leave all rings at home. If you really love him, that is.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALL MEN BETWEEN 16 and 60: You are in the privileged position of being able to do the "asking." You may be big, handsome, talented, and popular, but unless you have a heart you're nothing. When you attend a dance or a party, pay special attention to at least three girls who are not popular. Find something to compliment them for. Make them feel a little prettier, then watch them "bloom" and actually become prettier before your eyes. Among the quiet, plain-appearing girls are those with special qualities. Modesty, humility, generosity, virtue, and depth. For that is where they usually can be found.

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command has a captured enemy document stating that Hanoi's goals are to inflict heavy American casualties to prevent de-escalation of the Vietnam war while the United States is in a position of strength, official sources said Monday.

The informants said the document was captured north of Saigon Sept. 5 and outlines a program for implementing the Communist Command's battle plans.

However, the disclosure was coupled with an announcement that enemy activity had dropped to its lowest level in Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces since the week ending last July 26.

One source said: "The enemy's intentions remain obscure and his immediate goals are unclear. There has been no evidence of a large-scale effort planned for the immediate future."

The captured document said heavy American losses in past campaigns had forced the United States to halt the bombing of North Vietnam and to withdraw 25,000 troops during the past summer.

It emphasized what it termed Viet Cong and North Vietnamese diplomatic successes

Train Cars Still Burn

CORNING, Ohio (AP) — Police, firemen and chemical experts this morning kept watch over two burning Penn Central tank cars of gas which forced an estimated 40 families to evacuate their homes following a derailment.

Nineteen cars of a 73-car freight train derailed early Monday morning, rupturing two tanks cars—each containing 97 tons of carbon bisulfide—a and damaging several thousand feet of rail.

There were no injuries. Chemical demolition teams from Cleveland arrived in this Perry County community to oversee the transfer this morning of gas from two other derailed tank cars to other cars brought to the scene.

About 250 students at two schools in this village of 1,667 were evacuated along with the families. By late Monday afternoon, Police Chief Frank Wysinski reported the danger period over and allowed the families to return to their homes.

Police To Bring Murder Suspects Back To Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two suspects apprehended in Gallup, N. M., wanted here in connection with the slaying of four women during a holdup, will be returned here today by local police and federal officers.

Watterson Johnson, 22, decided to waive extradition Monday, as had the second suspect, John Leigh, 20. They were held in New Mexico on federal fugitive warrants signed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Apprehension was made by a New Mexico State Police Sunday.

Police here earlier arrested Raymond Kassow, 24, and Carl Ingle, 31, and charged them with four counts each of first degree murder.

The four are accused of killing three women patrons and a secretary at the Cabinet Supreme Savings & Loan Co., in suburban Delhi Township. The robbery netted $275.

Young Confirms Campaign Income

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, Ohio, confirmed Monday he has received a $10,000 campaign contribution in a special fund until he has decided to seek re-election in 1970.

Young said he will keep the money from the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee in a special fund until he discloses his political intentions in October.

Woman To Face Death Charge In Laskey Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — Carol Ann Estes, 19, awaited a trial date today following her indictment for first degree manslaughter Monday for the killing of Larry Laskey, 30, brother of Postel Laskey on death row in the Ohio Penitentiary.

Police said Mrs. Estes, shot Laskey in a downtown rooming house apartment Aug. 29. She said she shot him because she was being choked.

Laskey had served eight years in prison on a rape conviction. His brother Postel Laskey, convicted in 1967 for the killing of a secretary, Barbara Bowman, 26, in a taxi cab, was sentenced to death. His appeal is pending before the Ohio Supreme Court.

The status of Pfc. Davitt J. Franks, Cleveland, was changed from missing to dead as a result of hostile action.

Spaceport 20 Years Old; 35 Workers Now 20,000

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The nation's spaceport is 20 years old Wednesday, and it's a long time since mosquitoes stopped a countdown.

Fewer than 100 persons were on the payroll when the Joint Long Range Proving Ground, as it was then called, was opened for business on Oct. 1, 1949. Now there are more than 20,000.

The base then encompassed only 15,000 acres. Today it takes in 103,000 acres.

The test range extended 200 miles into the Atlantic compared with the present 10,000 miles, and sending people to the moon was only a dream.

"We only had about 35 people then," recalled Asa B. Gibbs, a now-retired Air Force colonel who became commanding officer of the Cape in 1951. "They have more security guards than that now."

Health Nurse Holds Clinics At Schools

Pickaway County Health Nurse Helen Pickens, conducted first grade clinics during September at Ashville, Pickaway, Jackson, Salt Creek, Williamsport and Derby elementary schools.

Statistics on the clinics will be completed in October. Mrs. Pickens visited two schools with a nurse from the state department of health, prevention of blind, to check students found during the course of the clinics who have an apparent need for further examination.

She also assisted with clinics at Berger Hospital.

In home visits, Mrs. Pickens referred an infant with a cleft lip and palate to the Hocking County Health Department, distributed vitamins to undernourished children, administered immunizations, visited crippled children and made a home call requested by Sertoma Club for a child who needs corrective eye surgery.

During the month, the county health department referred three esotropia cases (cross eye) to state services for the prevention of the blind for correction, found several cases who will be attended by private eye surgeons, referred three post-operative cases to OEO for followup, referred a new epilepsy case to the neuro clinic at Chillicothe, gave bicillin shots to a venereal disease case as directed by a physician, assisted at the pre-natal clinic, referred one spinal bifida child to state services for crippled children, treated three children for impetigo, referred four patients to the Lions Club for eye glasses, attended the Scioto Point Valley seminars, at Chillicothe for mental health study for children's problems.

50 Youngsters Ransack Hall At ABA Meet

HONOLULU (AP) — About 50 young men and girls broke into an exhibition hall Monday night, smashed typewriters and lighting fixtures and overturned tables set up for the American Banker's Association conference.

Four men and four women were arrested at the center, which the ABA's executive council had left moments before.

A police spokesman said damage would run into thousands of dollars. It was not known whether the intruders were members of any organization.

A spokesman for the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) said Monday the bankers' convention would be disrupted unless the bankers heed a demand for $6 billion to pay for alleged exploitation of American Negroes.

Roy Innis, CORE national director, vowed to mass a "people's army" to demonstrate at the center after the ABA's Urban Affairs Committee rejected the demand.

Leeroy Pink, a guard at the center, said the majority of the intruders were white and that "most of them looked like young, long-haired hippy types."

One woman was arrested for investigation of interfering with a police officer. The other seven persons were held for investigation of malicious damage to property. Police said all were Honolulu residents.

CORE representatives posted bail for those arrested but would not say if any of those arrested were CORE members.

Innis, on the center's grounds during the disruption, told newsmen, "I was just here to admire the architecture."

"These youngsters were only demonstrating the same kind of arrogance the bankers have shown us," he added.

Judge Nixes Obscenity Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — Obscenity charges against a movie operator for showing the film "Vixen" were returned to Hamilton county common pleas court today from U. S. District court.

Judge Davis S. Porter said there were no federal or civil rights questions in the case and refused to hear it. But he ordered the film returned to the defendant, Malibu, Inc., operators of the Guild Theater in Cincinnati.

The charges were brought by Charles Keating, founder of the Citizens for Decent Literature.

OEO Rights Division In Limbo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Economic Opportunity's civil rights division has been left in limbo by last week's personnel shakeup at the anti-poverty agency's headquarters. OEO says the division will be rebuilt, but it may take a while. When the rebuilding process is complete, the division's responsibilities will have changed drastically.

"Before the shakeup, the division investigated specific charges of discrimination," an OEO spokesman said. "When it is rebuilt it will be a policy developing group for all departments within OEO."

However, the spokesman declared to estimate how long it would be before the division was functioning again in any capacity. "The structure of that unit has not been mapped out because we have no one to head it up," he said. "We've had no one for some time. When we get someone, that person will be given the prerogative of setting it up."

How long will that be? "We don't know," the OEO official said. "Certainly as soon as possible."

The reassignment of OEO personnel was announced unexpectedly last Thursday by Director Donald Rumsfeld in a memorandum to the headquarters staff of 1,000.

Attached to the memorandum was a list of people who would definitely be reassigned. More than 100 employees were not included on the list, setting off rumors they were being eased out of OEO.

Many of those left off the list were in the $15,000 to $20,000 salary range and were connected with the agency's more controversial programs.

In his memorandum, Rumsfeld said those not on the list would be retained at present salary and grade and would be assigned for the time being to a manpower pool to be used where they were needed.

This includes the eight or nine employees of the civil rights division, the agency spokesman said.

The rebuilt civil rights division "will not be just an advisory group," the spokesman said. "It will be a real policy making group for the entire agency."

Bomb In Mayor's Pasture Puts End To Navy Practice

WAILUKU, Maui Island, Hawaii (AP) — The Navy, after years of bombing the tiny island of Kahoolawe, has called a halt.

Reason: A bomb far off target plunked into a pasture owned by Mayor Elmer F. Cravalho of Maui County, a longtime campaigner for an end to the bombing, which he says is a public nuisance.

Kahoolawe—pronounced Kah-oh-lah-vay—is a speck of barren volcanic rock six miles off the lush island of Maui. The Navy leases it from a private owner.

To keep its weekly practice attacks from annoying the 39,000 residents of Maui, the Navy orders its pilots to stay the far side of Kahoolawe and sends them out only when the weather is favorable.

Still, Mauians complain that concussions jangle their nerves and have jarred their homes to the point of cracking windows and foundations.

Over the weekend a telephone repairman found a live 500-pound bomb in a pasture owned by Cravalho near Maalaea Village on Maui.

"Without any doubt," the mayor said, "this discovery emphasizes the point we have been making for a long time. The bombing practices do present a clear and continuing danger to the physical safety of the citizens of Maui."

The Navy conceded that one of its planes strayed off course about a month ago. About that time, a Maui resident complained of a plane buzzing the area.

The bombing suspension was ordered Monday. It will last the Navy said, until it finds out just why the bomb fell in Mayor Cravalho's pasture.

The bomb was detonated on a remote Maui beach by Army demolition experts, blasting a hole 30 feet wide and 15 feet deep.

There were no arrests.

The legislature was scheduled to try to resume its special session on the Republican governor's $33 million welfare and urban aide package today. The bill would restore a number of cuts in the state welfare program which the legislature made last month. Its prospects of passage were believed poor.

"We're going to be here as long as the special session is in Madison," Groppi told several hundred cheering followers after their ouster from the Capitol.

Groppi, who led a small group of welfare mothers on a 90-mile, week-long march from Milwaukee to Madison, had entered the Capitol about an hour before the special session was to begin at 2 p.m. Monday.

GOOD YEAR

Spaceport 20 Years Old; 35 Workers Now 20,000

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The nation's spaceport is 20 years old Wednesday, and it's a long time since mosquitoes stopped a countdown.

Fewer than 100 persons were on the payroll when the Joint Long Range Proving Ground, as it was then called, was opened for business on Oct. 1, 1949. Now there are more than 20,000.

The base then encompassed only 15,000 acres. Today it takes in 103,000 acres.

The test range extended 200 miles into the Atlantic compared with the present 10,000 miles, and sending people to the moon was only a dream.

"We only had about 35 people then," recalled Asa B. Gibbs, a now-retired Air Force colonel who became commanding officer of the Cape in 1951. "They have more security guards than that now."

The first missile—a captured German V2 with an Army WAC Corporal second stage—was launched July 24, 1950, from a flimsy spiderweb of pipe and scaffolding.

The blockhouse was a wooden

50 Youngsters Ransack Hall At ABA Meet

HONOLULU (AP) — About 50 young men and girls broke into an exhibition hall Monday night, smashed typewriters and lighting fixtures and overturned tables set up for the American Banker's Association conference.

Four men and four women were arrested at the center, which the ABA's executive council had left moments before.

A police spokesman said damage would run into thousands of dollars. It was not known whether the intruders were members of any organization.

A spokesman for the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) said Monday the bankers' convention would be disrupted unless the bankers heeded a demand for $6 billion to pay for alleged exploitation of American Negroes.

Roy Innis, CORE national director, vowed to mass a "people's army" to demonstrate at the center after the ABA's Urban Affairs Committee rejected the demand.

Leeroy Fink, a guard at the center, said the majority of the intruders were white and that "most of them looked like young, long-haired hippy types."

One woman was arrested for investigation of interfering with a police officer. The other seven persons were held for investigation of malicious damage to property. Police said all were Honolulu residents.

CORE representatives posted bail for those arrested but would not say if any of those arrested were CORE members.

Innis, on the center's grounds during the disruption, told newsmen, "I was just here to admire the architecture."

"These youngsters were only demonstrating the same kind of arrogance the bankers have shown us," he added.

Five years ago, experts feared the El Molo tribe of Kenya would perish from malnutrition. The tribe had dwindled to about 150. The Kenya Government and private relief groups helped out and now the tribe numbers almost 300.

Health Nurse Holds Clinics At Schools

Pickaway County Health Nurse Helen Pickens, conducted first grade clinics during September at Ashville, Pickaway, Jackson, Salter Creek, Williamson and Derby elementary schools.

Statistics on the clinics will be completed in October. Mrs. Pickens visited two schools with a nurse from the state department of health, prevention of blind, to check students found during the course of the clinics who have an apparent need for further examination.

She also assisted with clinics at Berger Hospital.

In home visits, Mrs. Pickens referred an infant with a cleft lip and palate to the Hocking County Health Department, distributed vitamins to undernourished children, administered immunizations, visited crippled children and made a home call requested by Sertoma Club for a child who needs corrective eye surgery.

During the month, the county health department referred three esotropia cases (cross eye) to state services for the prevention of the blind for correction, found several cases who will be attended by private eye surgeons, referred three post-operative cases to OEO for followup, referred a new epilepsy case to the neuro clinic at Chillicothe, gave bicillin shots to a venereal disease case as directed by a physician, assisted at the pre-natal clinic, referred one spinal bifida child to state services for crippled children, treated three children for impetigo, referred four patients to the Lions Club for eye glasses, attended the Seloto Paint Valley seminars at Chillicothe for mental health study for children's problems.

Judge Nixes Obscenity Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — Obscenity charges against a movie operator for showing the film "Vixen" were returned to Hamilton county common pleas court today from U. S. District court.

Judge Davis S. Porter said there were no federal or civil rights questions in the case and refused to hear it. But he ordered the film returned to the defendant, Malibu, Inc., operators of the Guild Theater in Cincinnati.

The charges were brought by Charles Keating, founder of the Citizens for Decent Literature.

OEO Rights Division In Limbo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Economic Opportunity's civil rights division has been left in limbo by last week's personnel shakeup at the anti-poverty agency's headquarters. OEO says the division will be rebuilt, but it may take a while. When the rebuilding process is complete, the division's responsibilities will have changed drastically.

"Before the shakeup, the division investigated specific charges of discrimination," an OEO spokesman said. "When it is rebuilt it will be a policy developing group for all departments within OEO."

However, the spokesman declared to estimate how long it would be before the division was functioning again in any capacity. "The structure of that unit has not been mapped out because we have no one to head it up," he said. "We've had no one for some time. When we get someone, that person will be given the prerogative of setting it up."

How long will that be? "We don't know," the OEO official said. "Certainly as soon as possible."

The reassignment of OEO personnel was announced unexpectedly last Thursday by Director Donald Rumsfeld in a memorandum to the headquarters staff of 1,000.

Attached to the memorandum was a list of people who would definitely be reassigned. More than 100 employees were not included on the list, setting off rumors they were being eased out of OEO.

Many of those left off the list were in the $15,000 to $20,000 salary range and were connected with the agency's more controversial programs.

In his memorandum, Rumsfeld said those not on the list would be retained at present salary and grade and would be assigned for the time being to a manpower pool to be used where they were needed.

This includes the eight or nine employees of the civil rights division, the agency spokesman said.

The rebuilt civil rights division "will not be just an advisory group," the spokesman said. "It will be a real policy making group for the entire agency."

Bomb In Mayor's Pasture Puts End To Navy Practice

WAILUKU, Maui Island, Hawaii (AP) — The Navy, after years of bombing the tiny island of Kahoolawe, has called a halt. Reason: A bomb far off target plunked into a pasture owned by Mayor Elmer F. Cravalho of Maui County, a longtime campaigner for an end to the bombing, which he says is a public nuisance.

Kahoolawe—pronounced Kah-oh-lah-vay—is a speck of barren volcanic rock six miles off the lush island of Maui. The Navy leases it from a private owner.

To keep its weekly practice attacks from annoying the 39,000 residents of Maui, the Navy orders its pilots to stay the far side of Kahoolawe and sends them out only when the weather is favorable.

Still, Mauians complain that concussions jangle their nerves and have jarred their homes to the point of cracking windows and foundations.

Over the weekend a telephone repairman found a live 500-pound bomb in a pasture owned by Cravalho near Maalaea Village on Maui.

"Without any doubt," the mayor said, "this discovery emphasizes the point we have been making for a long time. The bombing practices do present a clear and continuing danger to the physical safety of the citizens of Maui."

The Navy conceded that one of its planes strayed off course about a month ago. About that time, a Maui resident complained of a plane buzzing the area.

The bombing suspension was ordered Monday. It will last the Navy said, until it finds out just why the bomb fell in Mayor Cravalho's pasture.

The bomb was detonated on a remote Maui beach by Army demolition experts, blasting a hole 30 feet wide and 15 feet deep.

The eviction of the priest and his fellow protesters ended an 11-hour takeover of the Assembly chambers. National Guardsmen called to duty by Gov. Warren P. Knowles surrounded the Capitol to prevent re-entry.

There were no arrests.

The legislature was scheduled to try to resume its special session on the Republican governor's $33 million welfare and urban aid package today. The bill would restore a number of cuts in the state welfare program which the legislature made last month. Its prospects of passage were believed poor.

"We're going to be here as long as the special session is in Madison," Groppi told several hundred cheering followers after their ouster from the Capitol.

Groppi, who led a small group of welfare mothers on a 90-mile, week-long march from Milwaukee to Madison, had entered the Capitol about an hour before the special session was to begin at 2 p.m. Monday.

Buckeyes Retain Top Grid Ranking

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The top seven teams, led by mighty and near-perfect Ohio State, retained their rankings this week in The Associated Press college football poll.

The Buckeyes of Woody Hayes, defending national champions, opened their season Saturday with a 62-0 massacre of Texas Christian and earned 35 of the 40 first-place votes cast by a nationwide committee of sports writers and broadcasters.

They wound up with a total of 784 points, only 16 short of a perfect score and 165 in front of runner-up Penn State, with two first-place votes and 619 points. Arkansas, Texas, Southern California, Oklahoma and Georgia remained third through seventh, respectively, with Texas getting the other three first-place ballots.

In weekend action, Penn State trimmed Colorado 27-3. Arkansas clobbered Tulsa 55-0. Texas trounced Texas Tech 49-7. Southern Cal walloped Northwestern 48-6. Oklahoma whipped Pitt 37-8 and Georgia blanked Clemson 30-0.

The rest of the Top Ten consisted of Purdue, up from 18th to eighth on the strength of a 28-14 defeat of Notre Dame; Missouri, which rose from 11th to ninth after crushing Illinois 57-6; and Tennessee, which drubbed Auburn 45-19 and climbed from 19th to 10th.

Notre Dame, which had been ninth, fell out of the Top Twenty.

The Second Ten included UCLA, up from 14th; Florida, no change; Michigan, up from 20th; Michigan State, down one to 14th; Alabama, no change; newcomers Louisiana State, Stanford, West Virginia and Wyoming in the 16-17-18-19 positions and Mississippi, down from eighth to 20th.

Besides Notre Dame, Indiana, Auburn and Arizona State dropped from the Top Twenty. They were 10th, 17th and 18th a week ago.

"We're aware we have some good players," Hayes said Monday at his weekly luncheon in Columbus, Ohio. "We have to continue to get better every time we play."

Kansas City Chiefs Look For Quarterback, Fast

By SHEILA MORAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Kansas City Chiefs, suddenly the American Football League's hard-luck team, are looking for at least one quarterback.

Starter Len Dawson injured his knee at Boston two weeks ago and is out at least another month. Backup man Jack Lee broke an ankle bone during Sunday's 24-19 loss at Cincinnati and will be sidelined two to three weeks.

Suddenly, No. 3 quarterback Mike Livingston, a second-year obscurity from Southern Methodist, is No. 1 and the Chiefs need someone at No. 2. They could even use a No. 3.

Coach Hank Stram discounted rumors of an impending trade and said Tom Flores and John Huarte, free agents with impressive credentials, were to try out with the Chiefs today. Stram also will look at rookie Ed Podolak, a former Iowa quarterback who has been used by Kansas City at running back.

Livingston played in two games last year and came in during the second half in the stunner at Cincinnati. He completed nine of 17 passes for 99 yards—not enough to stop the amazing Bengals, who won their third straight and snapped Kansas City's regular season game winning streak at seven dating from last season. The Chiefs also won all six exhibition games.

Flores, a nine-year veteran, spent seven years at Oakland,

1969 Year Of Pitcher In Baseball

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

This was supposed to be baseball's Year of the Hitter but the pitchers, lowered mound, smaller strike zone and all, haven't done badly for themselves.

There are a dozen 20-game winners sprinkled around the major leagues—the highest total since 13 pitchers reached the 20-victory plateau back in 1951.

And four other hurlers with 10 victories each could reach 20 as the season swings into its final week.

Phil Niekro, one of the 20-game winners, goes for Atlanta tonight against Cincinnati as the Braves try to clinch the National League West pennant. One Atlanta victory or San Francisco loss, ends the race.

Mike Cuellar, another member of the 20-victory club, was beaten 4-1 by Detroit Monday night—only the second loss in 15 decisions since the All-Star Game for the Baltimore left-hander.

Bill Freehan, whose run-scoring second-inning triple was the only hit of Cuellar through the first eight innings, drilled a two-run single as the Tigers rallied for three runs to break a tie in the ninth.

In the only other game played in the majors Monday night, Boston whipped Washington 8-5 as Rico Petrocelli set a record by hitting his 40th homer of the year, most ever by an American League shortstop. Petrocelli broke the mark of 39 set by Vern Stephens, who also played for the Red Sox.

Frank Howard ripped his 48th of the year for the Senators, tying Harmon Killebrew for the major league home run lead.

See Leroy Kelly Ready For Action

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Leroy Kelly, who suffered a pulled hamstring muscle in the Cleveland Browns' season opener against the Philadelphia Eagles Sept. 21, should be ready for the Browns' encounter with the Detroit Lions here Sunday.

That was the word Monday from Coach Blanton Collier, who added that defensive back Ernie Keller, who suffered a broken thumb in an exhibition contest, also could be available.

Change In Tennis Scoring Said Needed

NEW YORK (AP) — The director of the 1969 U.S. Open Tennis Championships says grass courts and the game's age-old scoring system must be eliminated if tennis is to compete against baseball, football and golf for the entertainment dollar.

Owen Williams, who was brought in from South Africa to run this year's event, predicted Monday that next year's championship will offer a $250,000 purse and gross $1 million—if the changes are made.

Besides Cuellar, 23-11, and Niekro, 22-13, the 20-game winners this season are Minnesota's Jim Perry, 20-6, Tom Seaver of the New York Mets, 25-7, Detroit's Denny McLain, 24-9, Dave McNally of Baltimore, 20-6, Dave Boswell of Minnesota, 20-11, Mel Stottlemyre of the New York Yankees, 20-14, San Francisco's Juan Marichal, 21-11, Houston's Larry Dierker, 20-12 and Ferguson Jenkins, 21-15, and Bill Hands, 20-14, both of the Chicago Cubs.

McNally and Perry both get a chance to add to their totals today. The Baltimore left-hander faces Detroit while the Twins' righty takes on Chicago.

Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals, Mickey Lolich of Detroit, and Claude Osteen and Bill Singer, both of the Los Angeles Dodgers, are all on the verge of the 20-victory club with 19 triumphs each.

Singer, Gibson and Lolich all pitched Sunday and Osteen worked Saturday. All could get one more shot at 20 in the final days of the season.

Woody Hayes Says Bucks Must Play Better Next Time

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — What does a team do for an encore after it registers a 62-0 victory?

"We have to continue to get better everytime we play," insists Woody Hayes.

That doesn't mean the Ohio State football coach expects his Buckeyes to whip Washington this week by a higher count.

"Our game against Texas Christian didn't prove much one way or another," Hayes told his weekly luncheon Monday. "We certainly weren't trying to set any records."

"TCU had injuries early and we were able to run pretty well after we hit our opening passes. We're aware we have some good football players. But these games obviously don't help you a lot. It is great for morale."

The No. 1 ranked Bucks were awesome against the Horned Frogs, rolling up 656 yards on offense to equal their 1958 showing against Northwestern. The 101 plays from scrimmage was a new standard.

The outcome obviously had some significant results for Hayes.

"We're two deep in the backfield and not quite that deep in the line," he admitted.

Ohio State, which owns the nation's longest winning streak, shoots for No. 16 Saturday against Washington at Seattle. The Huskies shouldn't be a serious challenge.

Washington lost its opener to Michigan State, 27-11, and was pounded by Michigan last Saturday, 45-7.

"In both games, the Huskies were toe-to-toe for three-quarters of the game," said Esco Sarkinen, the Buckeye scout.

They have an unusual blend of lettermen, sophomores and junior college transfers and are very big in the middle of the line.

The Huskies live up to their name along the line where they average 240 pounds but injuries

Luis Tiant To Try For Tribe Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Luis Tiant will be trying to prevent becoming a 20-game loser tonight when the Cleveland Indians meet the New York Yankees in the opener of a three-game series that will end the Indians' worst season since 1914, when they lost 102 games.

The Cuban right-hander, who won 21 games for the Indians last year, has a 9-19 record. He did not win a game between July 13 and Sept. 11 and had an eight-game losing streak in that stretch. He finally won his ninth game by beating Detroit Sept. 11 after failing in 12 previous attempts.

Canton And Niles Push Arlington In AP Grid Poll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Upper Arlington holds first place again in the weekly Associated Press high school football ratings, but challenging Canton McKinley and Niles McKinley are in hot pursuit.

Coach Marv Moorehead's Golden Bears cut loose with their biggest assault of the season last Friday romping over Portsmouth 79-12. The Bears, winning their 24th in succession, collected 159 points from the sports writers and sportscasters who vote in the poll.

Canton, smashing Alliance 30-8, moved to within 13 points of the leader while Niles killed Massillon's hopes with a 33-20 victory over the mighty Tigers. That vaulted the Red Dragons from eighth to third place and sent Massillon reeling to ninth.

John Sample Rips Rozelle As 'Dictator'

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Cornerback Johnny Sample of the New York Jets has termed commissioner Pete Rozelle a "dictator" and says that pro football would be better off without him.

Sample made the comment Monday at a news conference at which he announced he plans to publish a series of books on black athletes and their struggle for equality in professional sports.

"As a person, Rozelle has too much power," Sample said.

"He's biased against the AFL," Sample said, "because it was the NFL which gave him his job."

The 32-year-old football veteran, who is under contract with the Jets, was taken off the roster after he hurt his back in the All-Star Game.

"Whether I go back depends on what the doctors say," Sample said. "Right now I'm grounded."

Sample's first book set for completion early next year, will be on his dozen years in professional football. The book is half finished.

Sample said his first book will include something on the behind the scenes controversy between Rozelle and Joe Namath on the ownership of the Bachelor III restaurant in New York.

Unscoured upon Warren Western Reserve stayed in contention with its fourth straight and 91 points. Elyria was fifth followed by Sandusky, Zanesville, Mentor, Massillon and newcomer Cincinnati Moeller.

Zanesville slipped two notches despite a 67-0 pasting of Cambridge and Sandusky knocked Marion Harding from the top ten with an 18-6 triumph.

The big showdown could come Oct. 10 when Niles plays at Canton McKinley and Arlington journeys to unbeaten Zanesville. All the leaders are 4-0 except Mentor and Massillon, both 3-1.

In Class A, Newark Catholic, with 27 straight victories, clung to the top spot on 148 points, 12 more than Norwalk St. Paul. Catholic scored its fourth straight shutout, blanking Heath 50-0 while Norwalk whipped Monroeville 34-14.

McDonald was third followed by Cory-Rawson, Mount Gilead, New Albany, Granville, Dover St. Joseph, Marion Catholic and Dennison St. Mary.

Mount Gilead, beating Highland 32-0, jumped from 10th to fifth while Lorain Catholic, Watkins Memorial and Firelands dropped out of the charmed circle after suffering their first setbacks.

Kansas City Chiefs Look For Quarterback, Fast

By SHEILA MORAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
 The Kansas City Chiefs, suddenly the American Football League's hard-luck team, are looking for at least one quarterback.

Starter Len Dawson injured his knee at Boston two weeks ago and is out at least another month. Backup man Jack Lee broke an ankle bone during Sunday's 24-19 loss at Cincinnati and will be sidelined two to three weeks.

Suddenly, No. 3 quarterback Mike Livingston, a second-year obscurity from Southern Methodist, is No. 1 and the Chiefs need someone at No. 2. They could even use a No. 3.

Coach Hank Stram discounted rumors of an impending trade and said Tom Flores and John Huarte, free agents with impressive credentials, were to try out with the Chiefs today. Stram also will look at rookie Ed Podolak, a former Iowa quarterback who has been used by Kansas City at running back.

Livingston played in two games last year and came in during the second half in the stunner at Cincinnati. He completed nine of 17 passes for 99 yards—not enough to stop the amazing Bengals, who won their third straight and snapped Kansas City's regular season game winning streak at seven dating from last season. The Chiefs also won all six exhibition games.

Flores, a nine-year veteran, spent seven years at Oakland, then went to Buffalo in the 1967 Daryle Lamonica trade. His best season was 1966 when he was the Raiders starter and completed 151 of 306 passes for 2,638 yards and 24 touchdowns.

Huarte, 1964 Heisman Trophy winner for Notre Dame, spent 1965 on the New York Jets' taxi squad, was traded to Boston in 1966, released by the Patriots after four games of the 1967 season and spent 1968 with Philadelphia. He tried out with Minnesota this year before being released.

The Bengals, who did fine without starting quarterback Greg Cook after he was injured in the second half Sunday, said they'll know by midweek if their sensational rookie will be able to play against San Diego next Saturday. Cook pulled a muscle in his right arm and was replaced by Sam Wyche.

Minnesota, which handed Baltimore its second straight loss, expressed confidence that quarterback Joe Kapp will be able to play in next Sunday's game with Green Bay. Kapp fractured his non-passing wrist in the third quarter but Coach Bud Grant said the break is high enough that it doesn't affect the use of his hand.

Booster Meet Slated
 The Circleville High School booster Club will meet 8 p.m. Wednesday at the high school cafeteria. Films of the Hillsboro game will be shown.

1969 Year Of Pitcher In Baseball

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
 This was supposed to be baseball's Year of the Hitter but the pitchers, lowered mound, smaller strike zone and all, haven't done badly for themselves.

There are a dozen 20-game winners sprinkled around the major leagues—the highest total since 13 pitchers reached the 20-victory plateau back in 1951.

And four other hurlers with 10 victories each could reach 20 as the season swings into its final week.

Phil Niekro, one of the 20-game winners, goes for Atlanta tonight against Cincinnati as the Braves try to clinch the National League West pennant. One Atlanta victory or San Francisco's loss, ends the race.

Mike Cuellar, another member of the 20-victory club, was beaten 4-1 by Detroit Monday night—only the second loss in 15 decisions since the All-Star Game for the Baltimore left-hander.

Bill Freehan, whose run-scoring second-inning triple was the only hit of Cuellar through the first eight innings, drilled a two-run single as the Tigers rallied for three runs to break a tie in the ninth.

In the only other game played in the majors Monday night, Boston whipped Washington 8-5 as Rico Petrocelli set a record by hitting his 40th homer of the year, most ever by an American League shortstop. Petrocelli broke the mark of 39 set by Vern Stephens, who also played for the Red Sox.

Frank Howard ripped his 48th of the year for the Senators, tying Harmon Killebrew for the major league home run lead.

Besides Cuellar, 23-11, and Niekro, 22-13, the 20-game winners this season are Minnesota's Jim Perry, 20-6, Tom Seaver of the New York Mets, 25-7, Detroit's Denny McLain, 24-9, Dave McNally of Baltimore, 20-6, Dave Boswell of Minnesota, 20-11, Mel Stottlemyre of the New York Yankees, 20-14, San Francisco's Juan Marichal, 21-11, Houston's Larry Dierker, 20-12 and Ferguson Jenkins, 21-15, and Bill Hands, 20-14, both of the Chicago Cubs.

McNally and Perry both get a chance to add to their totals today. The Baltimore left-hander faces Detroit while the Twins' righty takes on Chicago.

Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals, Mickey Lolich of Detroit, and Claude Osteen and Bill Singer, both of the Los Angeles Dodgers, are all on the verge of the 20-victory club with 19 triumphs each.

Singer, Gibson and Lolich all pitched Sunday and Osteen worked Saturday. All could get one more shot at 20 in the final days of the season.

Woody Hayes Says Bucks Must Play Better Next Time

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
 COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—What does a team do for an encore after it registers a 62-0 victory?

"We have to continue to get better everytime we play," insists Woody Hayes.

That doesn't mean the Ohio State football coach expects his Buckeyes to whip Washington this week by a higher count.

"Our game against Texas Christian didn't prove much one way or another," Hayes told his weekly luncheon Monday. "We certainly weren't trying to set any records."

"TCU had injuries early and we were able to run pretty well after we hit our opening passes. We're aware we have some good football players. But these games obviously don't help you a lot. It is great for morale."

The No. 1 ranked Bucks were awesome against the Horned Frogs, rolling up 656 yards on offense to equal their 1958 showing against Northwestern. The 101 plays from scrimmage was a new standard.

The outcome obviously had some significant results for Hayes.

"We're two deep in the backfield and not quite that deep in the line," he admitted.

Ohio State, which owns the nation's longest winning streak, shoots for No. 16 Saturday against Washington at Seattle. The Huskies shouldn't be a serious challenge.

Washington lost its opener to Michigan State, 27-11, and was pounded by Michigan last Saturday, 45-7.

"In both games, the Huskies were toe-to-toe for three-quarters of the game," said Esco Sarkkinen, the Buckeye scout.

They have an unusual blend of lettermen, sophomores and junior college transfers and are very big in the middle of the line.

The Huskies live up to their name along the line where they average 249 pounds but injuries

Change In Tennis Scoring Said Needed

NEW YORK (AP)—The director of the 1969 U.S. Open Tennis Championships says grass courts and the game's age-old scoring system must be eliminated if tennis is to compete against baseball, football and golf for the entertainment dollar.

Owen Williams, who was brought in from South Africa to run this year's event, predicted Monday that next year's championship will offer a $250,000 purse and gross $1 million—if the changes are made.

New License Plate Series Announced

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Increased demand for special license plates has prompted the Bureau of Motor Vehicles to add a new letter-number series.

Requests for the reserve, or special license plates, annually reaches 40,000 to 45,000, including initials and special number-letter combinations.

The new series will be any three letters followed by any combination of the numbers one through five. The previously unavailable series will start with the 1970 registration year.

Reserve license plates cost an additional $5 annually and must be paid in advance. The plates are mailed to the owners.

Anyone wishing to obtain a reserve license number in 1970 must write the Bureau of Motor Vehicles for an application between Oct. 1, 1969 and Feb. 1, 1970. The plates are issued on a first come, first serve basis.

Once a number is secured, renewal applications are automatically sent to the owner and the number can be kept indefinitely. Reserve license plates have been issued since 1934.

Eleanor Parker To Quit Series

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Eleanor Parker, who stars this season in her first television series, "Bracken's World," says she's quitting "due to lack of creative satisfaction."

"My role has become peripheral and of little importance," the veteran film star said Sunday.

The show, which gives a behind-the-scenes view of a movie studio, features Miss Parker as secretary to the never-seen studio chief, Bracken.

She said the initial concept was to use 11 permanent stars as a "repertory company," but weekly guest stars have become the dominant characters.

Miss Parker said she will bow out at the end of the first 16 episodes.

New License Plate Series Announced

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Increased demand for special license plates has prompted the Bureau of Motor Vehicles to add a new letter-number series.
Requests for the reserve, or special license plates, annually reaches 40,000 to 45,000, including initials and special number-letter combinations.
The new series will be any three letters followed by any combination of the numbers one through five. The previously unavailable series will start with the 1970 registration year.
Reserve license plates cost an additional $5 annually and must be paid in advance. The plates are mailed to the owners.
Anyone wishing to obtain a reserve license number in 1970 must write the Bureau of Motor Vehicles for an application between Oct. 1, 1969 and Feb. 1, 1970. The plates are issued on a first come, first serve basis.
Once a number is secured, renewal applications are automatically sent to the owner and the number can be kept indefinitely. Reserve license plates have been issued since 1934.

Eleanor Parker To Quit Series

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Eleanor Parker, who stars this season in her first television series, "Bracken's World," says she's quitting "due to lack of creative satisfaction."
"My role has become periphery" and of little importance, the veteran film star said Sunday.
The show, which gives a behind-the-scenes view of a movie studio, features Miss Parker as secretary to the never-seen studio chief, Bracken.
She said the initial concept was to use 11 permanent stars as a "repertory company," but weekly guest stars have become the dominant characters.
Miss Parker said she will bow out at the end of the first 16 episodes.

See Stokes Easy Winner In Election

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Carl B. Stokes, first Negro elected mayor of a major U.S. city, was expected to receive the majority of votes today from the light to moderate turn-out primary election.

Most political experts thought Stokes would win handily over a political newcomer, Robert J. Kelly, who campaigned on a law and order platform.

If Stokes gets past Kelly, his Nov. 4 general election opponent will be Cuyahoga County Auditor Ralph J. Perk, who is bidding to become Cleveland's first Republican mayor in 38 years.

Kelly, 48, is a former city service director.
Only 150,000 were expected to turn out at the polls although there are 316,340 registered voters in the city. A light turnout was expected to help Stokes, whose supporters have been working hard to get out the vote in the predominantly Negro wards.

Stokes counted on 95 per cent of the vote from the black community, which makes up about one-third of the city's population, but he also was expected to draw a large number of white votes.

Stokes, 42, was elected in 1967. He has had problems with the rank and file of the police force and there was a recent Civil Service Commission scandal involving police promotion examinations. But the mayor says his administration has made advances in housing, jobs and pollution control.

Frosty Chill Nips Northern Plains And Northeast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A frosty chill nipped northern sections of the plains and the Northeast today and dropped temperatures into the 40s as far south as the Virginias.

The crisp weather generally was accompanied by clear skies which dominated most areas of the nation except the Pacific Northwest and parts of the Rockies.

Rain splashed over the Northwest before daybreak. Showers also soaked portions of Florida Monday night. An inch of rain washed the Gainesville area.

The system is needed to reduce the draft's uncertainty for young men, Laird told a House armed services subcommittee. He said that period of uncertainty could be extended for many if administration efforts are successful in scaling down the draft through reduced troop

Laird was leadoff witness at hearings by a special House subcommittee.

The secretary noted that Nixon has announced that if Congress does not remove the ban on a lottery he will establish by executive order plans aimed at putting the highest draft risk period on 19-year-olds nearing their 20th birthdays. However, all draft eligible men would be placed in the 19-year-old category during the initial year in an effort to make everybody liable for a year.

"But we feel that the random draft selection system will best meet the important test of fairness and understandability and will best help in reducing uncertainty for young men concerning their draft prospects as they enter their 19th year of age," Laird said.

The hearings on Nixon's proposal were called last week by Chairman L. Mendell Rivers, D-S.C. of the House Armed Services Committee. But there were suggestions by key members as they began that a hearing on the plan may be all that Nixon will get from Congress.

Police Chief Sees Plot To Take U.S.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A campus police chief says student uprisings are being masterminded by off-campus revolutionaries who hope to take over the United States.

"The day of the student disturbance is past, at least at Berkeley," declared Chief William Beall of the police force at the University of California's Berkeley branch.

"The senseless violence at Berkeley during the past year was planned, instigated and financed by a small band of off-campus revolutionaries."

"Police should realize that student idealists and pacifists have been replaced by an older group of migrant street people, narcotics users and what we call 'crazies.'"

Beall said organizers in the San Francisco Bay area boast that they can mobilize 10,000 such persons in a week's time.

Beall addressed a campus disorders workshop Monday at the 76th convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Associated Press Editors Open Meet

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Newspapers must "dig more deeply to discover the significant things" in order to maintain reader confidence, the Associated Press Managing Editors Association was told today.

These and other steps to counteract a credibility problem that "appears to exist between us and our readers" were offered by Charles S. Rowe, APME president, at the opening of the organization's four-day annual convention.

Police Chief Sees Plot To Take U.S.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A campus police chief says student uprisings are being masterminded by off-campus revolutionaries who hope to take over the United States.

"The day of the student disturbance is past, at least at Berkeley," declared Chief William Beall of the police force at the University of California's Berkeley branch.

"The senseless violence at Berkeley during the past year was planned, instigated and financed by a small band of off-campus revolutionaries."

"Police should realize that student idealists and pacifists have been replaced by an older group of migrant street people, narcotics users and what we call 'crazies.'"

Beall said organizers in the San Francisco Bay area boast that they can mobilize 10,000 such persons in a week's time.

Beall addressed a campus disorders workshop Monday at the 76th convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Hamilton Police Get New Chief

Pre-Natal Care Provided For Indigents

The Pre-Natal Clinic is sponsored by the Circleville Child Conservation League.

It provides free pre-natal care for women unable to afford these services.

Since it's organization in early 1967, the clinic has served 100 patients in the Pickaway County area. At the present time, 20 patients are receiving care through the clinic.

All funds are used to provide special drugs and to pay for nursing services. All doctors and lab services are donated free of charge.

ing, the mark price of the dollar dropped to 3.87-3.89 from a range of 3.92-3.9725 Monday night.

This represented a 3 1/3 per cent premium on the four-mark parity. Zurich dealers said they expected the West German Central Bank to intervene to prevent the mark from fluctuating too wildly.

This dollar dropped to 3.8850 marks on West Germany's open market today within 15 minutes after opening at 3.91 marks. The dollar had closed at 3.93 marks Monday night.
